Two Kingstonians Visit Vermont

Have Exciting Experiences in Seeking to Help Methodist Minister Who Preached in Kingston Last Summer.

The Rev. Ernest G. Reith, pastor of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, and Willis N. Ryder of 37 Furnace street spent two exciting days Friday and Saturday of last week when they traveled by auto to Vermont, visiting one of the most devastated sections that resulted from the recent flood.

Mr. Reith received word of the desolation at White River Junction, the village at which his friend, the Rev. Mr. Harris, was Methodist minister, and Mr. Reith was anxious to aid his friend and family. Despite the warning of Vermonters that their goal was unattainable by auto, Mr. Reith and Mr. Ryder arrived at White River Junction after narrowly averting the wrecking of their auto and injury to themselves. Through suffering Vermont, practically the entire trip was made across fields of mud, as the roads were transformed into river beds. Innumerable hazards were encountered on the trip, such as crossing improvised and untested bridges, passing mud banks that were in danger of sliding away, and running head-on to the brink of gapping holes where once bridges had been. At White River Junction, where they joined the Harris family, they talked with men who had walked barefooted from thirty to sixty miles from their leveled farms in the hills to relief stations to get food and clothing for the families. As a whole the attitude of the people is one of contentment, for even those who witnessed their life's fortunes swept away over-night are rejoicing that the loss of life was not greater.

At the morning and evening services at Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Sunday, large sums were received to be sent to Mr. Harris to use in the relief work. Mr. Harris preached at the Clinton Avenue Church last summer when Mr. Reith was away on his vacation.

CHAMBERLIN DESIGNS $2,500 "FLIVVER" MONOPLANE

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—A $2,500 "flivver" monoplane has been designed by Clarence D. Chamberlin to provide for aviation what Henry Ford has given to the automobile world.

Through a system of mass production similar to that employed in the Ford auto factories, the transatlantic flier said he expects to be able to market a "fool proof" plane at a price between $1,200 and $1,500. The first models will cost about $2,500, he said.

Chamberlin was said to have invested all of the prize money he received from his flight to Germany in the Chamberlin Aeronautical Corporation, a $500,000 concern to build the plane of which he has dreamed. The ship will have a body about 20 feet long and a wing spread of about 30 feet. A secret of light wing loading which he alone holds, he said, made him confident that the venture will prove successful.

Free flying instructions will be given purchasers of the "flivver" planes, Chamberlin said, in announcing that his company would establish a chain of airplane schools throughout the country for his purpose.

Action Against Dempsey Ended

Newark, N. J., Nov. 21 (AP).—Plaintiff's charges of attempted tampering with justice on the part of Jack Dempsey and Tex Rickard brought an end today to Jack Kearns's $200,000.00 court action against Dempsey.

Both sides agreed to ending the case by voluntary non-suit after Judge Runyon had told the defense, who wanted the trial to go on, that the only alternative would be a mistrial.

Just before Judge Runyon issued his ultimatum the court was thrown into an uproar by George L. (Tex) Rickard, who so resented a remark of Kearns' counsel that the promoter had boasted having the case "in the bag," that he called the lawyer a "contemptible liar" in open court.

Leases on Indian Lands Taxable

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Incomes derived by those holding leases on Indian tribal lands were declared taxable by the Federal government under the revenue act of 1916 and those acts down to and including that of 1921, in a Supreme court ruling today.

The suit was brought in the Federal courts of western Pennsylvania, where taxes collected from Glenn T. Braden on income from oil leases on Osage Indian lands in Oklahoma were ordered refunded.

The government asserted that should the decision stand it would be required to pay back $150,000,000 collected in taxes, $822,346 being involved in the Braden case alone. It estimated that during 1926 the income from such taxes amounted to $98,000,000.

More Members For Farm Bureau

Membership renewals in the Farm Bureau as reported by canvassers working in the various communities will exceed the 1927 total. Already increased totals over 1927 are reported for Marlborough, Milton, Wallkill-Shawangunk, Highland, Spring Glen and Ellenville. Canvassers are now at work in Kerhonkson, Accord, Stone Ridge, Hurley, New Paltz, Gardiner, Modena, Plattekill and Clintondale. Final reports are not in for Tongore, Lake Katrine, Ulster Park and Accord.

Every effort will be put forth to complete the canvassing by the first day of December, the date of the annual meeting. Members who have not been seen will be helping out considerably by sending dues directly to the office.

Find Bodies of Couple in Lake

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP).—Fear that death soon would separate them after 20 years of devotion to each other is believed to have driven Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Neumann to seek the end of life together by walking hand in hand into the deep waters of Green Lake near here. Their bodies were recovered yesterday after the couple had been missing several days.

Illness of Mrs. Neumann after a nervous breakdown had alarmed her relatives, who offered the opinion that the couple had planned the pact for several days.

DISMISS APPLICATION FOR ANTI-DUMPING ORDER

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP).—The treasury today dismissed an application for anti-dumping order against German and Italian rayon, a silk-like cloth.

Assistant Secretary Lowman said the department had decided that there was no surplus stock of rayon yarn in the United States and the difference in price between domestic and Italian and German rayon was too slight to affect the American trade.

St. John's Annual Supper.

This year the annual chicken pie supper given by the ladies of St. John's Episcopal Church will be held at the parish house on Albany avenue on Thursday evening, December 1, from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. These chicken-pie suppers have become an institution looked forward to because of the excellence of the chicken-pie plus other good things. There will also be fancy articles for sale.

$45,000 in Gems Stolen.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP).—Police were searching today for $45,-000 worth of jewelry stolen in a black bag from Mrs. Lucien F. Foster, wife of a Chicago banker. Mrs. Foster, on her way home, has wired detectives here she will forward a list of the stolen articles immediately. Among the articles the bag is known to have contained was a pearl necklace valued at $15,000.

Doxology, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow".
Benediction, the Rev. Charles B. Smith, pastor of Wurts Street Baptist Church.

TWO CASES IN POLICE COURT BEFORE SHUFELDT

George Williams, 17, of 79 Chambers street was arrested for driving a Ford truck without the necessary license papers. This morning he explained to Judge Shufeldt that he had no license papers but had driven the truck at the request of Benjamin Rothenberg of 114 North Front street, owner of the truck and his employer, Mr. Rothenberg was in court and said that was true. Judge Shufeldt informed Rothenberg that the state department would be notified of the matter, and fined the youth $5, stating that he believed Rothenberg should pay the boy's fine. Rothenberg paid.

Sunday night Marshall Amarello, 58, an Italian residing at 135 Greenkill avenue, raised such a rumpus at his home that the police were called and he was placed under arrest by his son, Seymour, and turned over to Officers Hess and Relyea. This morning the son informed Judge Shufeldt that all the family desired was to have the father behave himself and for that reason the charge of disorderly conduct was not pressed.

Bloodshed in Colorado I. W. W. Coal Strike

Three Strikers Known to Have Been Killed by State Policemen—Governor Adams Declares Martial Law In the Strike Area.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 21 (AP).—First blood was shed in the I. W. W. coal strike in Colorado early today, when state policemen fired on several hundred strikers who stormed the Columbine mine of the Rocky Mountain Fuel and Iron Company, 30 miles north of Denver.

Three strikers were known to have been killed and more than a score were injured. Strikers asserted that from seven to ten had been slain, but this could not be verified. Many of the state officers were injured.

Governor W. H. Adams ordered out part of the Colorado National Guard and declared martial law in the strike area.

Troops were on their way to the Columbine mine when the governor signed an order giving the National Guard absolute authority in the strike district.

500 Strikers Assembled.

Nearly 500 strikers gathered outside the mine about 5 a. m. They were met at the gates by Louis N. Scherf, chief of the state law enforcement department, and a dozen of his men.

The strikers were commanded to halt but surged through the entrance and engaged in hand to hand conflict with the guards.

Guns were wielded by the police but they were overwhelmed. The strikers used rocks, clubs and knives.

Scherf rallied his officers and they withdrew to take up a new position. As the strikers approached again Scherf warned them to stop and fired two shots over their heads. The advance was continued and the state officers levelled their guns directly into the ranks of the invaders and opened fire. After nearly a score had dropped, the strikers fled through the gates.

One of the injured was not expected to live and several others were seriously wounded.

The Columbine mine was the only large property in the northern field to continue operations after strikers started picketing.

Columbine officials armed guards with machine guns last week and informed Governor W. H. Adams that the special police would shoot the first trespasser.

However, at a demonstration shortly after the "shoot to kill" order was issued, guards withheld their fire when women and children led a delegation of strike sympathizers over the patrol lines.

The demonstration today followed a mass meeting last night at Boulder, near the mine, attended by many women. The principal speaker was introduced by Adam Bell, chairman of the meeting, as "the duke," who said he was a California lonkshoreman and a member of the I. W. W. He attacked state and mine company officials.

Cooper Marriage Is Annulled

An Ulster county elopement had its sequel in Supreme court before Justice Morschauser in Poughkeepsie Saturday morning, when Mrs. Phoebe Cooper, through her guardian and mother, Mrs. Celia Harrison, obtained an annulment of her marriage to Leonard Cooper. Both families, who united in testifying, said they knew nothing about the marriage, which was performed by Justice of the Peace Walter Webber, Novembr 4, 1926, until after it had been performed.

The same day of the marriage, Mrs. Cooper, who is 18, became ill and returned to her home. Leonard Cooper, the 18-years-old husband, stayed at his home. Although they had been married romantically by a justice of the peace, in a regular elopement, the bride and bridegroom never lived together.

Andrew J. Cook represented Mrs. Cooper and Thomas F. Coughlin represented the defendant. No contest was offered by the defendant against having the marriage dissolved. He was called to the witness stand to be identified.

Mrs. Laura Cooper, mother of the youthful husband, also testified and joined her plea with that of Mrs. Harrison that the marriage be annulled.

DEATH CLAIMS FOUR PROMINENT PERSONS

Rambouillet, France—Adrianne Clemencean, 79, sister of France's war time premier, Georges Clemenceau, died.

Wife Comes to Wagner's Defense

Testifies She Never Heard Youthful Farm Hand Threaten to Shoot Troopers If They Came to Her Home.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP).—Mrs. Doris Wagner, wife of Wilmont Leroy Wagner, who is charged with the murder of two state troopers, came to his defense today.

She testified that she had never heard the youthful Canadean farm hand threaten to shoot State Troopers if they came to her home. Mrs. Wagner, who was the first defense witness called at the murder trial, was followed by Margaret Wagner, sister of the defendant.

Mrs. Wagner's testimony contradicted that of her aunt, Mrs. Ella Stephens, who testified for the prosecution. Mrs. Stephens declared that Wagner said "he would shoot troopers if they came to his house."

Justice Brown refused to grant a motion to Thomas F. Rogers, counsel for Wagner, that all testimony relating to Trooper Arnold Rasmussen be stricken from the record. While Wagner was indicted for the murder of both troopers, he is standing trial only for the murder of Trooper Robert Roy.

The justice also refused to grant a motion by Rogers which called for exclusion of photographs of the Wagner farm house showing location of Rasmussen's body.

CHICKEN THIEVES BUSY IN TOWN OF ROSENDALE

Elmer Bundy, who resides on the Creek Locks-Rock Lock road in the town of Rosendale, reported to Sheriff Rice Sunday morning that some time after midnight thieves broke into his hen coop and stole 110 choice white Leghorn fowls. Sheriff Rice immediately took up an investigation but the missing pullets were not located. A search was made in the vicinity and poultry dealers were also visited to learn if anyone had sold fowls which corresponded to the missing ones. Mr. Bundy reported that he and his family retired Saturday night about 11 oclock and at that time the fowls were still in the coop. He discovered their loss when he went to feed them Sunday morning.

LEGION SERVICE CLUB WILL MEET ON TUESDAY

Because Thanksgiving Day falls on the twenty-fourth, the American Legion Service Club will meet on Tuesday, instead of the 24th, the regular day. Reservations for dinner should be made to George W. Potter, president of the organization, a day in advance of the meeting.

Mr. Potter has arranged for speakers to talk to the club on various subjects. The club will meet at 6 o'clock.

Republicans Hold Supper at Sawkill

The Republicans of Sawkill held a chicken supper and rally on Saturday evening at Heim's Inn in Sawkill. The occasion was a get together and celebration of the election day results. The supper was served by the ladies of the Women's Republican Club.

The toastmaster, Henry Charleton, called upon the successful candidates to give a short talk. Gus Winne, elected road superintendent, spoke about the prospects for advancing the county road through Sawkill. Thomas Murphy, the new town clerk, spoke about the welfare of the town, and what the new road would mean to the residents. H. Ruff, the town collector, and Fred Gerstle, the school director, also talked on topics of interest to the town.

Will Not Try To Change Rule

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—The New York Times says today it has learned from an authoritative source that friends of Governor Alfred E. Smith will make no effort to change the rule requiring a two-thirds vote to nominate the candidate for president at the Democratic national convention.

The Times, which is friendly to Smith, says a survey of the national political situation has convinced friends of the governor that there is little likelihood of opponents of his nomination succeeding in an attempt to get a block of more than a third dry, anti-Catholic delegates.

The governor's supporters, the Times says, also believe that agitation against the two-thirds rule would provoke ill feeling that might prevent the governor's election, should he be nominated, and that it would be well for the sake of party harmony to avoid any conflict over the rule.

Barring a change in the situation, the Times says, the governor's friends here are convinced they have received a two-thirds majority for him.

New England Flood Estimates

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP).—Estimates in the hands of Secretary Hoover place the New England flood damage at between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000.

The figures were compiled from reports by the various state departments, by chamber of commerce and by railroads traversing the stricken territory.

"It is not to be expected that the damage done will have any lasting effect upon the industrial progress of the localities most concerned or of New England," Hoover said.

No Delivery of Mail Thursday

There will be no delivery of mail in Kingston on Thursday—Thanksgiving Day—but there will be the usual holiday collection of mail. All of the windows in both the Central post office and the two stations will be closed all day, but the lobbies will be open for the convenience of box holders.

SHOOT AT CONNELLY THANKSGIVING DAY

The third annual shooting contest will be held at Connelly Thanksgiving Day at 1 p. m. It will be conducted in the immediate village where shot guns and rifles will be used in competition for prizes of turkeys, ducks and chickens. All hunters may enter the contest and guns will be furnished those who have none of their own.

In the past two years the shoots conducted by Edward Scherer and Edward B. Haines have proven very popular and many huntsmen tried their aim to win a prize. It is expected that many will take part this year. No. 6 shot will be used. The judges will be Frank Mower, Joseph Schatzel and Thomas Morrissey.

Sale at Home For Aged.

Hand-made, serviceable yet pretty gifts are becoming more and more acceptable at Christmas time, and at the annual sales held at the Home for the Aged on Green street such gifts may always be found in profusion and reasonably priced. They also always have lovely gifts for very little children. This year the sale will be held on Thursday and Friday, December 1 and 2 at the Home, No. 95 Green street.

Advertisers are reminded that on account of Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, being a holiday, copy for Friday's advertisements should be sent to The Freeman office on Wednesday or even Tuesday. To insure publication, advertising copy should always be in the office the day before publication.

Ford Discusses Many Subjects

Declares Herbert Hoover Would Make an Ideal President—Praises Jews for Setting Example as Hard Workers.

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Herman Bernstein, editor, who recently withdrew a $200,000 libel suit against Henry Ford after the latter had apologized for anti-Jewish articles in the Dearborn Independent, today made public an interview with him in which the automobile manufacturer discussed a wide variety of subjects.

Ford believes that airplanes carrying 200 passengers will be in general use in five or ten years. He fears the World War was not the last. He foresees the rise of Russia and China through work, he praised Jewish enterprise and said the Jews deserve much credit because they spur others to work harder.

Ford spoke highly of Herbert Hoover, describing him as a man of extraordinary constructive achievement. He believed he would make an ideal President of the United States.

Ford spoke of Hoover in a discussion of work as the basis for peace.

"I believe that Mr. Hoover would be an ideal president," Ford said. "Some people are opposed to him because they fear he is too closely identified with capitalism. But there is hardly anything that is accomplished today without the aid of capital.

"Look at the results achieved by Mr. Hoover. That is, after all, the thing that counts. He is a man of extraordinary constructive achievement. I am satisfied that Hoover would make a really great president. He is an engineer. He is systematic. He is practical. He has deep sympathies. And he knows America and the rest of the world as few Americans do."

Unemployment and idleness breed wars and revolutions, the motor manufacturer told Bernstein at Detroit, in urging hard work as the agent for peace and progress. Terming work "the only salvation of the world today", Ford asserted "Germany is one of the best examples of a nation getting on its feet again after a dreadful catastrophe. I believe that Russia will also come into her own. China will also readjust herself."

MRS. SOUTHARD'S SISTER SERIOUSLY HURT SUNDAY.

Sunday evening police headquarters received a telegram from the New York police department asking that Mrs. Frank L. Southard of 116 Henry street be notified that her sister, Mrs. May Groxan, of 340 West 86th street, New York, was in the Reconstruction Hospital at 395 Central Park West with a fractured skull, and that her condition was serious. The local police notified the family, who left for New York at once.

CONFETTI DANCE AT POLISH SCHOOL HALL

On Tuesday evening at the Polish School Hall on Delaware avenue there will be held an entertainment and confetti dance under the auspices of the Children of Mary Sodality. The proceeds will go to the Immaculate Conception Church. This is the first affair the Sodality has conducted for the church since the return of the pastor. Zucca's orchestra will supply the music. The public is cordially invited to attend.

PRATT RECOMMENDS THREE REAPPOINTMENTS

Reappointment of John D. Fratsher as postmaster at Saugerties and the postmasters at Tillson and West Camp, at the expiration of their terms next January, has been recommended by Congressman Harcourt J. Pratt.

Oliver Keator is postmaster at Tillson, and Mrs. Jennie C. Stanton is the incumbent at West Camp.

Can't Dispose of Molasses.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP).—Dry officials here face the problem of disposing of 60,000 gallons of sticky molasses, seized in a raid of a big alcohol distilling plant. City authorities fear the substance, unusually thick at this period of the year, would clog the city sewers, while land owners approached on the subject have refused to have their property smeared. The Niagara river has been suggested but ordinances exist which prevent that disposition.

Former Congressman Dies.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 21 (AP).—Oscar E. Keller, former congressman from the Fourth Minnesota district, who introduced a resolution in Congress in September, 1922, seeking impeachment of Harry M. Daugherty, the then attorney-general, died today after a long illness. He was 49 years old.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

PLAY AT THE COMFORTER CHURCH HALL TUESDAY

On Tuesday evening, November 22, a three-act comedy entitled "The Hoodooed Coon," or "Always in Trouble" will be presented under the auspices of Edwin Myers Sunday school class. It will be given in the church hall beginning at 8 o'clock. The play is most humorous and should keep one laughing from start to finish. The net proceeds will be given to the church hall dept. It is hoped that there may be a large number present.

The following is the cast of characters:

Misery Moon, a hoodooed coon ..... Roger Keenan
Gideon Blaire, a millionaire ..... William T. Hookey, Jr.
Tom Rizzle, as slick as a whistle ..... Billy Schumacker
Hiram Tutt, an awful nut ..... Morton Pearson
Patrick Keller, a ticket seller ..... Eva Dederick
Rosebud Riese, her charming niece ..... Stella Katterson
Paula Malask, a Bolshevik ..... Sylvia Mantovani
Lulu Pearl, a ragtime girl ..... Rose Jones
Bride and groom—Marie L. Ferguson and John Dedrick.

After the play ice cream and cake will be served for a small additional sum.

Thoughtful Vegetables

"Animals don't talk," says the San Francisco Chronicle, "which indicates that they think." Neither do cabbages also remarkable for their mental powers, nor those giants of thought, the turnips. The gifted editorial paragrapher of the Chronicle, on the other hand, talks, which supports the abundant other evidence that he does not think.—The Argonaut.

Crabs Like Coconuts

On the South Sea islands there lives a variety of crab, the largest in the world. These crabs pick up coconuts and dig out the "eyes." Through these holes they extract the meat. Sometimes they even lift the nuts and smash them on the ground to get at the edible meat inside.

Know Your Subject

Some people do a lot of talking in order to explain what they have been talking about. The trouble lies in undertaking to talk about what one has not sufficient knowledge. Better know more and talk less.—Grit.

Sports Frocks in Fall-Winter Mode

Costumes Reflect Preference of Women Who Are Athletically Inclined.

If any one type of dress may be said to dominate the season's mode it must be the sports costume. It is really a glorified sports dress, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, which comes out in all the designs, though in every material and color and in as many ways as there are individual creators of fashion on both sides of the Atlantic. Gowns for every occasion are made after the manner of the simple tailored frock or suit which was originally intended to meet as comfortably and completely as possible the requirements of athletically inclined women. Thereby the silhouette and entire architecture of dress in general have been changed. Indefinite outlines and informal composition with much formality in detail have been utterly erased. Sophisticated simplicity has taken the place of overelaboration, which the newest models have shown to be wholly unnecessary for the expression of femininity.

Ever since the sports style came to be accepted as a possible inspiration for the expression of many different types, couturiers have included it among the designs of their collections. Some have given it prominent place, others have shown but incidental examples in frocks, suits or ensembles. A few have given it their special attention and allotted to it an important place in their season's offering. Of these, J. Suzanne Talbot has had distinguished success. She adapts materials of every sort and description to the sports model, and in doing this artistically has widened the horizon of the original conception. "Sports" dress has no longer a necessary connection with athletics. It is largely a matter of material and trimming which distinguishes the gown of formal elegance when it is fashioned on the plan of the severely tailored frock for out-of-door life. This testing accomplishment is achieved with successs in the large assortment of beautiful costumes which Talbot presents. The fabrics cover an assortment from the stoutest weaves to the most delicate; from tweeds to chiffon velvet, and, in trimming, from leather strapping to gold mesh fringe. The most sober and the fantastic are done with equal finish, showing both conception and workmanship of the highest order.

Skirts Are Longer.

The latest idea in skirts is shown consistently in the Talbot designs, all of them being several inches longer than the styles of last year, and in all of the models attention is drawn to the bottom of the skirt. This, except in the most severe models, is finished in some specific manner, such as with a band of contrasting material or cut in points, battlements or scallops. This treatment of the hem line is one of the features of the season in which Talbot is especially skilled, introducing it with fine distinction as to the type of gown to which it is suitable. Gowns of cloth and of velvet are made with the straight line at the bottom, and illustrate the charm of many kinds of plaiting. Few skirts of the Talbot costumes are made plain, and these only in the handsome fabrics which are sufficiently elaborate in themselves. One of her remarkable achievements is a skirt in which the box plaits are laid so as to be narrow at the top and widening toward the bottom and yet keep their shape—which has heretofore been thought to be impossible. This manipulation of fabric is one of the fine points of the season, illustrated in many chic costumes.

The combination of contrasting materials is shown in a large variety of models, particularly in the less formal tailored suits. In one that was especially smart there was a skirt of brown and beige in a rough mixture, woven in broken plaid pattern, the skirt being plaited all around, with a panel arrangement directly in front. This was attached, as usual in most of the three-piece suits, to a short bodice of beige crepe, and over this was worn a loose box coat of beige cloth, cut finger-tip length. Box plaits are a favorite of this couturier, who employs them in many different ways. In one suit the plaits of a skirt which is finished with a band of different material and darker color are stitched to release them at various lengths, two short alternating with one long line, the material matching the borrom band which is used between the plaits. A blouse bodice is made to match this, and a three-quarter blouse coat is belted with a strap of the contrasting cloth. Narrow cuff bands and one of the latest collarettes —a small scarf wound close about the throat and tied at one side—are all of the same stuff.

Velvet in the Lead.

Velvet, which is tremendously fashionable, is introduced in many of the best Talbot creations. It is shown as one part of the costume, either a blouse or coat, or is used as in trimmings. A crepe gown is made with a band of velvet at the skirt bottom, and for collar and cuffs. In another model a band of velvet is used at the bottom, with a crush belt and collar of the same, all in the shade of the gown. Both velvet and fur are added as trimming in a somewhat whimsical manner. In a one-piece gown of black crepe satin several new features are introduced. The waist line is absolutely normal, marked by a narrow belt of silver embroidery which trims also the neck and outlines each side of the opening of the bodice from neck to belt line. The sleeves end midway between elbow and wrist, and these have an edge of the embroidery, with which two pockets cut lengthwise at the sides of the skirt are also outlined. Around the bottom of this unusual frock is seen a band of black fox, which appears nowhere else. This manner of trimming with a single band of fur is shown effectively on a coat of beige velvet which is cut with a slight flare. It is fastened with buttons sewn close together down the middle front and is belted with a strap of glace kid and jeweled buckle about the waist, which is but slightly below normal. Not an atom of trimming is seen anywhere on the coat except a band of black fox fur drawn close around the neck.

Black Is Conspicuous.

Black has come out conspicuously in the latest styles for winter and is shown by Talbot in some of her handsomest models. Some of these are made with tailored formality, all of one material, or more often combined with velvet. These are more usual than gowns of velvet. An extremely smart ensemble is shown in which a blouse is made of black and white polka dot satin, the dots being as large as a silver quarter. This combined with plain black has somewhat the effect of a Pierette costume. With it is shown a toque made of the satin, with a wide upright band of black velvet. With the exception of two or three flashingly bright models the Talbot colors are quiet and rich in feeling and the designs both chic and elegant. An eccentric but altogether successful model is made with an overskirt of gold mesh woven as are the purse bags, with deep points and lacy edge, the weight of the metal holding close about the figure. Of entirely contrasting type is a frock named by its author "Nitouche," of grayish-blue woolen material in two shades, ornamented with steel buttons which are placed on the shoulder seam and at the belt line in front. The lighter blue is used for the bodice front, inserted as a vest, and beneath the edges of the inverted box plait in the middle-front of the skirt. The sleeveless jersey, which is so modish this season, is introduced in even the afternoon type of dress, which is quite charmingly illustrated in a model of black georgette crepe. The jersey of finely striped material in pink, gray and blue embroidery is made absolutely plain. It comes down to the hips and is beltless, with a wide band of the crepe around the bottom, and has long, close-fitting sleeves of crepe.

TRANSPORTATION.

New York has opened its new Holland Tunnel under the Hudson River, and motorists drive through its twin tubes in four columns at the rate of 4,000 cars an hour. The tunnel cost $48,000,000, and will pay for itself from tolls in a few years. Meanwhile New York prepared to build a bridge over the Hudson costing three or four times that much, and it too will soon pay for itself.

There is a bridge recently opened across the Niagara River at Buffalo with an automobile capacity equal to that of the Holland Tunnel, and another to be erected over the Detroit River at Detroit. There are great new bridges at New Orleans and San Francisco. Hundreds and hundreds of millions go into these structures. They are no sooner built than used to capacity. Our people pay for them and demand others, bigger and more expensive.

We are a nation of builders, as the ancient Romans were. And we demand transportation facilities that they never dreamed of—always more and better transportation. That is now man's fourth need—after food, clothing and shelter, we demand to get about. It is really moving up toward the head of the list. Millions of us now require transportation first, as a pre-requisite to obtaining food, clothing and shelter. Without it, how would our urban populations earn a living?

CRIMINALITY AS DISEASE.

Here is a curious story. A young man held up and robbed the prospective customer whom he was driving in the automobile he was supposedly expecting the victim to buy. Then that thing of marvels, modern science, took a hand. The young man was operated on, all "tendencies to violence and robbery" were "cut out" of him, the scientific experts pronounced him "cured", and the District Attorney was induced to drop the charges against the "former" criminal.

But it has been impossible to pump into the aggrieved victim the same complete faith in an operation claiming to have produced moral reformation, or to have reconstructed the young bandit's mind, merely by cutting into the flesh of his body. He insists on a trial, declaring that the fellow still looks exactly like the same person who pointed a gun at his head and took his money. Naturally he wonders if the surgeon would be so sure of the effectiveness of his knife if his own fat pocket-book had been surrendered at the point of a revolver, or if the District Attorney had been the loser he would now so readily bow before the mighty prestige of science.

It seems that the stubborn and unforgiving victim is accused of "cynicism", which is itself learnedly described as one of the "four hundred social diseases". The upshot of the affair is still awaited. Meanwhile a large public is apt to share the skepticism of the victim and to be inclined to think that even ten years of good behavior by the amateur bandit will not be proof that the surgeon's knife alone accomplished his reformation. Unquestionably the theory that criminal tendency is mere physical disease removable by an operation or by pills calls for prodigious faith.

TRANSPLANTED NEGROES.

Referring to the statement of Judge Lewis of Philadelphia to the October Grand Jury that "apparently 75 or 80 per cent of persons held in prison charged with crime" are negroes, and to "the inferences he drew from that premise," the Philadelphia Record points out that persons in prison charged with crime are untried persons who may or may not be guilty and "who have been unable to get bail." The Record also offers in extenuation a statement notable for its recognition not only that the black man has a wider industrial opportunity in the South but suffers less industrially from race prejudice there—as follows:

The Southern negro transplanted to the North is a victim of unfavorable environment. He usually comes here to take a specified job, and when the work is completed he finds it difficult to land another. This is partly because so many avenues of employment open to him in the South are closed to him in the North, both by union rules and by race prejudice. Idleness and ignorance are prolific causes of crime.

The Record find, however, that Judge Lewis's estimate of the proportion of negroes among untried prisoners in Philadelphia is "not far from correct." It learns by inquiry that the untried inmates of Moyamensing Prison are "about 75 per cent colored", that in the county prison at Holmesburg the negro ratio is "55 per cent" among prisoners serving sentence, and that in the Eastern Penitentiary the negro proportion is "over 35 per cent"—Startling figures in view of the fact that the negro population of Philadelphia is "but 5 per cent." Hardly less significant is the noted fact that 22 per cent of the persons arrested in Philadelphia in 1926 were negroes.

By way of partial explanation of the disproportionate criminality of the blacks the Record quotes a social service authority as saying that "every negro who comes here totes a gun, but his offenses are mostly bootlegging, sneak-thieving and house-breaking." Police authorities are quoted as saying that "usually the crimes of violence committed by negroes are shooting and cutting affrays arising over women and crap games." Although desirous to be charitable, the Record admits Philadelphia's serious problem, its negro population furnishing "an undue proportion of the grist for our courts."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY

James W. Barton, M.D.

ANOTHER NAME FOR THE LIVER

The liver has been called another name recently that I'd like to pass on to my readers. It is the "washerwoman" of the body, which takes blood that has got itself dirty or impure from food eaten and washes these impurities out, before it allows the blood to travel on its way throughout the body.

Unfortunately some livers are not strong enough to do a good job, other livers are gven too big a job, and so the blood passes through the liver and to other parts with some of these impurities in it.

Dr. Leonard Williams reminds us that Dr. Carrell and others have been able to keep cells alive by washing them daily, and removing the wastes therefrom.

So this job of cleansing the blood and removing wastes is done to a large extent inside the body by the action of the liver.

When a washerwoman arrives for her day's work and finds an unusually large and dirty wash, she will work away and do her best, but when night arrives the clothes are not as clean as usual.

Now this same thing applies to the liver. If you eat too much food or have allowed yourself to get so constipated, that the liver is unable to cleanse the blood thoroughly, this only partially cleansed blood is what nourishes all the tissues of the body, including the brain.

If you allowed Nature to enter into the matter here you would be all right. She would prevent you eating as much or as often, and so the liver would be able to gradually cleanse your blood properly.

Some times this means complete fasting.

It is unfortunate that many physicians take such extreme views regarding fasting.

Some recommend fasts for everybody and for weeks at a time. Others declare that fasting is so weakening that the shock to the patient may cause collapse and death.

As a matter of fact the short fast, as mentioned before, gives the liver a chance to cleanse the blood repeatedly, so that wastes that are in the tissues themselves, are carried to the liver and removed. You see the body lives on its tissues during the fast.

In a very long fast, however, so much acid is formed that it is poisoning to the blood, and death may ensue unless liquid food is given every half hour or every few minutes.

The point then is that you should be fair to your washerwoman, the liver. Keep your blood clean by regular intestinal habits and do not eat too much starchy food at one time.

Get a Move On, Mother!

If, as a German scientist asserts, the formation of petroleum by nature is still going on, nature had better work fast. The demand is increasing. —Indianapolis News.

It's a neighbor-maker

OVER in the bunkhouse the boys of the Bar-C outfit have Kansas City on the radio. In her Park Avenue apartment, the slim fingers of a famous actress turn the dials, and the same music leaps forth. Forty miles north of Milwaukee, Chris Jonsen, the dirt farmer, is listening in on the same wave-length.

THE same sort of thing is going on everywhere, all over the country, at all hours of the day and night. Folks in Los Angeles see the same movies, and ride in the same automobiles that New Yorkers enjoy. The resident of Seattle wears the same sort of clothes, eats the same brand of bacon, and lives in the same kind of house as his neighbor in Portland, Maine.

ADVERTISING has done it. Advertising, the miracle worker, keeps everyone in the land attuned to the latest in everything. It has changed the buying habits of a nation. It is the great modern force that makes neighbors of the people of far countries, that brings the best of their customs to us, and takes ours to them.

Reading the advertisements will keep you abreast of the times.

Swift's Great Power as Satirist of Vice

Swift is unquestionably the greatest of English satirists, and it is interesting to observe why he is so much more effective than our numerous satirists today, of whom we have God's plenty. The reason—apart from the incomparable austerity and beauty of his prose style—is not far to seek. It can be stated in two words. Our present contemporary satirists ridicule virtue; Swift ridiculed vice. Our living satirists attack religious and moral people, and, above all, they make fun of anyone intensely in earnest. If this earnestness is directed not toward the predatory selfish satisfaction of lust or lucre, but expresses itself in religious, moral or social reform, then the satire takes on increasing intensity. Swift attacks treachery, ingratitude, lechery, pimping, uncleanness, hatred, envy, swinishness, avarice, and the wholesale murder sentimentalized under the name of patriotism. And it is because these degrading vices were all about him in England in 1726 and all about us in England and in America at present that the cutting edge of his sword went so deep and made so many victims wriggle, and it also explains why that sword has not lost its edge in 200 years.—William Lyon Phelps, in Yale Review.

"COME OVER TO TEA"

It is not necessary that we have large means or great wealth to enjoy the comfort of entertaining our friends. To entertain simply is just as enjoyable and within the means of ordinary folks. The joy of giving, as well as receiving hospitality, should not die out. There are always those away from home who appreciate a home meal and the comfort that goes with it. On Sunday, when the dinner is served during the middle of the day, tea is such a happy time to have one's friends drop in. The meal need not be a substantial one and it may be served in any manner suited to one's taste. If chilly or rainy, a lunch before the grate, serving everything from the tea wagon, is a most delightful way. A chafing dish with a hot dish, or any food, may be quickly prepared and brought from the kitchen. There are few who do not enjoy helping to prepare the meal, either from the chafing dish or kitchen range. It breaks up any feeling of formality and aids the hostess at the same time.

If the night is damp and chilly, a good hot soup is always relished. Hot sandwiches with coffee will be enjoyed.

With the variety of canned soups of all kinds, including vegetables and meats, one will always find something agreeable.

Here are a few suggestions:

Milk or cream toast prepared from hot, freshly made toast, dipped around the edges in hot milk and spread generously with butter, then covered with a rich white sauce thickened, using two tablespoonfuls of flour and two of butter to a pint of milk. When wishing to make the dish more nourishing, add some grated cheese with a dash of red pepper.

Fresh ginger bread with apple sauce and cottage cheese or as a dessert; serve the ginger bread with whipped cream.

Cottage cheese used to stuff dates, or cottage cheese with a bit of salad dressing on lettuce makes a fine dish of salad.

X-Rays in Industry

The game of "button button" is now being played in a commercial way with the aid of X-rays. The device is used to search for buttons and other solid materials in piles of rags that are to be used for making paper. Serious damage to the pulping machinery is likely if buttons, hooks, eyes, and other hard articles are not removed. To find these objects, the rags are conveyed on endless bands over an X-ray tube, where the solid materials are readily detected by fluorescent screens.

Thanks to Jealousy!

Parchment was invented owing to the jealousy of two kings. Papyrus was exported from Egypt, and Ptolemy Philadelphus, being jealous of Eumenes of Pergamus because he was afraid the latter would acquire a larger library than his own, forbade the export of the reed.

Eumenes looked about him for a substitute, and ordered the skins of sheep to be dressed in such a way that they could be used for writing. Hence came parchment, the thin, fine variety of which is known as vellum.

Evil in Unwise Feeding

Two Chicago teachers did a little experimenting the other day. One swallowed a toy balloon attached to a stomach tube. The other blew up the balloon. In a few minutes the man who had swallowed the balloon felt drowsy as one does after heavy eating. Which indicates distention of the stomach is the cause of the feeling of unfitness after a too hearty meal. The stomach is capable of astonishing distention. But it's unwise to take advantage of that fact.—Capper's Weekly.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Events Around The Empire State

(By The Associated Press.)

Olean—"Men only" will be the rule at the special election here on December 13 when a proposed bond issue for repairing portions of two streets and the construction of a bridge comes before the voters. It will be the first time since woman suffrage has been in effect that the women of Olean have been denied the right to vote. The city charter provides that "no other person" than "male citizens" may vote on a question where street improvements or bridge construction is concerned.

Rochester—A pair of white moosehide breeches made in London for Brigham Young, famous head of the Mormons, and which "were anointed with the Holy Oil of the first Council", are in the Rochester Museum. The texture of the breeches, which were made to fit tightly about the ankles, is as soft as that of satin. They were given to W. I. Cogswell, an actor and Mormon elder, by Young, according to an affidavit accompanying the breeches.

"In them I baptized the Pee Ju Indians as the first service they should be put to," Cogswell's affidavit, made in 1877, reads.

Saranac Lake—To have lived together as man and wife for 65 years, more than half a century of which has been spent in one house, is the unique record of an aged Adirondack couple. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wells have for thirty-two years dwelt in a house on a remote road in the section of the mountains known to Warren county folk as The Gore. Both are close to ninety years old but are still active and each day perform regular household duties.

So remote is their mountain home that after nightfall they can see no light from it other than that of moon and stars.

Olean—Whether the city is responsible when an automobile spring is broken by a rough railroad crossing will be decided by a committee of the council. A local motorist presented a bill for $5 for repairing the springs on his car, said to have been broken when he passed over the tracks.

Salamanca—William Colvenbach, a farmer discovered that he had treed a 200-pound bear instead of a coon when the animal crashed to the ground at the first shot from his light shotgun. It took an hour and 24 shots to kill the animal.

Cucumber Blossoms

The male blossom appears before the cucumber is formed. The female blossom appears at the same time the cucumber is formed. The male blossoms on the cucumber plant outnumber the female blossoms by three or four to one and appear first. The female blossoms may be identified because a small cucumber is formed between the blossoms and the plant.

Saugerties Factory Building Sold.

The Kursheedt Manufacturing Co. Inc.'s factory building, better known as the former lace factory on North street, Saugerties, was purchased through the real estate agency of Edward Moran by four Saugerties residents, W. Hoyt Overbagh, John F. Cartright, Richard D. Overbagh and Supervisor John C. Shults. The building is fully equipped and is expected to be a factor in the industrial expansion of Saugerties in the future.

Saugerties Orthopedic Clinic.

Twenty children attended the orthopedic clinic held at the Municipal Building, Saugerties, Thursday. Dr. Craig, chief orthopedic surgeon of the State Health Department, assisted by Miss McCarthy and Miss Fitzgerald, state department nurses, and Miss Cassidy and Miss DeGroff, the local health and school nurses, completed the examinations.

Brimful of Health

Wide-awake Children Brought up on

Father John's Medicine

BECAUSE her mother used it when she was a little girl, Mrs. J. J. Whitney, Melrose, Mass., knows the value of Father John's Medicine and has always used it for her own children now that she is responsible for the health and happiness of a growing family. Mrs. Whitney, like thousands of mothers, has learned to depend on Father John's Medicine when any of the family has a cold or a cough, or has become weak or run down. Its pure food elements build new strength to throw off disease. Its healing properties soothe the throat irritation and it helps to drive out impurities. And do not forget it is guaranteed free from alcohol and dangerous drugs.

A gracious deed is like the echo of beautiful music; giving pleasure to the receiver, it rebounds to the added enjoyment of the giver. . . . . Mayflower Reproduced

On the north side of the three-storied bridge connecting the two buildings of Liberty & Co. on Regent street, London, is a weather vane of gilded copper as faithful a representation as can be made of the Mayflower. Although it appears small from the ground the vane is four feet high and weighs over a hundredweight.

Not Poetic Fantasy

Carcassone is an actual city, situated on the canal of the Midi in southern France, so the immortal poem is not entirely fanciful. The Midi is one of the most beautiful of the waterways of France, over 100 miles being lined with magnificent trees. Carcassone boasts a fortress which has stood for 15 centuries.

Surgical Triumphs

The year 1809 was distinguished by the first operation for disease of the appendix as such. The first decisive step in the direction of modern methods was taken by a London physician named Haddock. The first operation on the appendix performed in the United States was done by R. J. Hall of New York, on May 8, 1890.

CHIC STYLING GIVES PRESTIGE TO SNUG FELTS AND SOLEILS

SNIP, snip, snip! goes the scissors in the fashioning of the cunning felts which are "all the rage" for street and sportswear. It is a fact a felt hat nowadays is not eligible to the modish class until it has undergone a major scissor operation from which it emerges a new "creation" flaunting fascinating eccentricities both of crown and of brim.

All this individualizing of the hat to its wearer has led to a very interesting innovation in some of the shops, where expert modistes are employed to cut and pin the hat on the head. The way you do it is this—you choose the felt hood you like best. After which you are ushered to a seat before a large mirror, where a milliner is in waiting with scissors in hand. Just for all the world like going to the barber for a "bob"! Only instead of bobbing your hair the milliner bobs your hat, cutting away a superfluous part here, giving it a deft crease there and so on, until presto! you step forth smartly and becomingly hatted in a model individualized to your type. Not a bad idea! eh? Especially for the woman of large head size who welcomes an opportunity to be fitted with a hat that is up-to-the-minute in youthful styling.

Concerning the chic little felts grouped in this picture, they are charming examples of what a pair of scissors in the hand of the "milliner born" can achieve in the way of smart headwear. The cunning soft ripple-brim effect shown to the left at the top, also the smart toque in this collection are two superfine soleil types—aristocrats in the realm of felt. Theirs is a sleek, silky finish and they are as light in weight as a feather.

The first hat in the group shows a coronet flange attained by cutting away the brim and raising it to bridge the top of the crown. The hat in the center has been "scissored," too, the cut-away brim forming a tiara flange topped with a perky bow of the felt. The model to the left below stresses an off-the-face flange and a felt bow trimming at the back. The last hat features the new slashed and folded-back brim, which is an exceedingly popular fashion.

Look for Opportunity for Good Investment

You do not have to go a thousand miles from home to make money. Opportunities are all around you. Look about. Keep your eyes and ears open. Ask questions. Investigate. If you find—and you will—an enterprise in your town which has fallen on evil days, get at the reason for its difficulties. It may be bad management, it may be dishonesty, it may be extravagance, it may be faulty manufacturing, it may be any one of a hundred things. No matter! If the business is one which justifies itself—that is, if it serves or tries to serve some good purpose—the chances are nine in ten that, some day, somehow, it will "come back." When it starts—when it is evident that it is headed upgrade, put what money you can spare into it. You may lose; but I doubt it. One of the richest men I know bought stock in the company of which he is now president and the largest stockholder when it was so thoroughly discredited that its $100 shares were selling at less than a dollar, and he was bookkeeper on a salary of less than $100 a month. But, investigate before you invest, not after, if you would play safe.—From The New Age Illustrated.

New Guinea Natives Hostile to Visitors

New Guinea is the largest island (except Australia) in the world. It is situated in the south Pacific ocean just north of Australia and somewhat southeast of the Philippines.

There are over six hundred thousand black natives on the island, some of them still very savage and hostile to strangers. Being so near to the equator, the temperature is never cold, except on the mountain tops; and for this reason the natives do not require solidly built houses. Their habitations are very simple structures. They are made of reeds or the branches of certain trees, and covered either with some of the long grasses that grow in the islands or with the leaves of palm trees. Some of the villages have streets as straight as our own, but they are not paved, being merely dirt roads worn smooth by the naked feet of the inhabitants. The houses must be rainproof, for rains in these regions are often heavy; and they are also proof against earthquakes.

Mystery of Rheumatism

Rheumatism used to be thought an ailment due to exertion and exposure. It was considered natural that agricultural laborers should be bent and gnarled in old age.

Slowly there came the knowledge that rheumatism is due to a poison in the blood, and has nothing to do with hard work or the weather. Now we know that rheumatism affects the heart.

In a British ministry of health report, Sir George Newman says that almost all deaths from heart disease of people under forty are caused by the effects of rheumatic infection. The nature of the infection has still to be discovered, and research work in this direction is badly needed.

Kidding the Kids

"I won't drink milk," exclaims little Tommy, petulantly. Don't spank him! Be diplomatic. Make a game of it.

Children can be made to do things in this way, and enjoy doing them. For example, to make a child drink milk:

Do not give him a whole glass. Use a small glass. Ask how many sips it will take him to drink it all. He will guess. Then doubt him. Let him count each sip. When it is gone make a wager that he cannot better his record. He will say he can, and very likely will prove it. In this way the child will probably drink more than otherwise.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Beer of Ancient Days

Researches conducted by an eminent Assyriologist deals a scholarly blow to the notion that the Egyptians were the first brewers. A thesis by Doctor Huber, the Assyriologist, published by the German Society for the History of Bibliography of Brewing, shows conclusively that the Egyptians learned the art of making beer from the Babylonians. Sumerians in the seventh millennium before this era used beer in religious sacrifices, early authentic records indicate. The art of malting appears to have been perfected in the fifth millennium and after the time of Hammurabi hops, emmer, a special kind of wheat, and barley, were used.—Exchange.

Sense and Philosophy

A colored man being interviewed by authorities in regard to a shooting affray gave to the world this bit of philosophy:

"Ah didn't see nothin' so ah don't know nothin'!

"You all know, boss, I spends six months of every year 'tendin' mah own business and ah spends the other six months of the year tryin' to keep from 'tendin' other people's business, so all in all, I'se a busy man."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Earning Praise or Blame

What people say of us after we are dead matters little so far as we are concerned. What they say of us while living may be of utmost importance to us. Yet for the one as well as for the other we are very largely responsible. —Grit.

Highest Form of Help

The truest help we can render an afflicted man is not to take his burden from him, but to call out his best strength, that he may be able to bear the burden.—Phillips Brooks.

NOTICE TO SUBMIT BIDS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed bids for the construction of masonry and steel garage at Gage Street, Kingston, New York, by the Committee on purchase and maintenance of highway machinery and equipment of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Ulster, New York, will be received if filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Ulster on or before the 6th day of December, 1927, at two o'clock, P. M., on said day, and the said bids will then be publicly opened and read. Said bids shall be addressed to Henry R. DeWitt, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Ulster, and endorsed on the outside thereof "Proposal for the Construction of Masonry and Steel Garage at Kingston, N. Y."

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids and to accept whichever bid may, in the judgment of said Committee, or the Board of Supervisors, be most advantageous to the County, or to re-advertise or take any action relative thereto which may seem to them right and proper.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for ten per cent of the amount of the bid, made payable to the Treasurer of the County of Ulster, New York. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them immediately upon the awarding of the contract, or on demand. In case of failure to sign the contract, the certified check accompanying the bid accepted may be retained by the County of Ulster as liquidated damages for such failure. The proposals being in the alternate, the certified checks shall be for ten per cent of the highest figure bid by the contractor.

The bidder whose proposal is accepted will be required to enter into a contract within five days thereafter giving a Surety Company bond acceptable to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Ulster, New York, for an amount equal to the total of his bid. His certified check will be returned to him upon the signing of his contract.

The plans, specifications and proposal may be obtained from Teller and Halverson, Architects, 280 Wall Street, Kingston, New York, by payment of the sum of Twenty-five Dollars, which sum will be refunded under the terms of the plans and specifications.

Dated, Kingston, New York, November 21, 1927.

FREDERICK DAVIS,
JAMES H. HEATON,
HARRY H. CLEARWATER,
Committee.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Tuesday, November 22.

Corinne Otis Skinner is not only famous because of the fame of her father, but she is distinctly an artist in her own name. During the past year she has been acclaimed as among the foremost of American entertainers and her character sketches, written and acted by herself, have won enviable public recognition for her in remote parts throughout the country. In a program of this sort Miss Skinner will make her radio debut on Tuesday night at 9:00 o'clock through WEAF and the Red network, as guest of the Eveready hour. She will be supported by the Eveready Revellers male quartet, Virginia Rea, soprano, and Nathaniel Shilkret's orchestra. Max Reinhardt's production of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be broadcast in full direct from the stage of a New York theatre by WGBS and WJZ beginning at 8 o'clock this same night. Howard Mesmer, the singing fireman of the Northwest, who will be heard over an WJZ at 10:30, steppers from a Northern Pacific locomotive into fame as a concert singer. Other night skits have been arranged by WJZ, WMAQ, WLS and WBBM.

FOR COLDS, GRIPPE TRY THIS NEW CAPSULE TREATMENT

Relief in 24 Hours Guaranteed.

The trouble with so many cold remedies is that they are too slow in acting. The disease gets too firm a grip on the system before the cold cure begins to work. This difficulty has been overcome with remarkable success by the use of the capsule form of treatment now used in the well-known D.W. Kold Kaps. The capsule dissolves at once in your stomach, and promptly releases a specially imported and remarkably efficacious ingredient which goes right to the seat of the trouble. Relief within 24 hours is guaranteed—or you get your money back. All druggists carry....

THEY CALLED HER SCRAWNY BUT NOT FOR LONG

Is your face drawn and pinched? Your skin flabby? Are your cheeks sunken with great hollows under the eyes? Does your figure show unbecoming angles instead of the softly rounded slimness of youth?

All these conditions rob you of attractiveness and make you look old. But worst of all, these may actually be the symptoms of simple anaemia—that dread ailment so often suffered by women.

There's nothing so good as McCoy's Tablets to put on firm flesh, round out face and figure and build up rich, red blood.

So if you need a few pounds of flesh to round out the hollows, if you want to get back old-time energy and health, get a box of McCoy's Tablets today. Just a short treatment will make you look and feel like a new person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

New Hearing Aid Boon to the Deaf

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-day Free Trial Offer

What is said to be the most advanced hearing-aid ever developed by scientists working for the alleviation of deafness has just been perfected by the Dictograph Products Corporation, Dept. 2650, 220 West 42nd Street, New York City. It is notable not only as an instrument for the correction of hearing through the clear transmission of sounds to subnormal ears, but it is, as well, a device of many refinements not the least of which is the tiny and inconspicuous earpiece, which is no larger than a dime. This new instrument bears the name of the Silver Anniversary Model Acousticon, and celebrates a quarter-century of achievement in the acoustical field by the maker, who offers a ten-day free trial of this scientific marvel to any one afflicted with deafness. Write them at once for such a free home test. Advt.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

HOW

PLANT FAMILY DEVELOPS SHOWN IN EXHIBITION.—In the largest botanical museum in the world, located in the New York Botanical garden—an imposing Italian renaissance structure looking not unlike an imperial palace—one of the chief exhibits—shows natural plant families in the sequence of their development. It begins with a plant that has the appearance of clay. It consists of a single cell and grows gradually into two cells, which continue to multiply, eventually developing into a "high-order" plant.

The exhibit contains a collection of the better-known plants used for the production of many of the necessities of life. The specimens include foods, drugs, gum, spices, oils, corks and many others. They are arranged in their botanical sequence, showing the lower order of plants first.

The fossil botany group shows the stages of evolution through which the ancestors of present-day plants have passed. An exhibit that never fails to attract attention shows the varieties of plant life to be found within a hundred-mile radius of New York city.

The museum also contains laboratories where specimens, gathered from all parts of the world by various expeditions, are classified and arranged. A large botanical library is maintained.

How Electricity Has Made Organ Supreme

The modern movie organ is in its fundamentals a true pipe organ, but it has all sorts of orchestral instruments added to it, and played by it through the magic of electricity. This type of organ comes very close to being an orchestra and band all in itself, and still it is under the actual control of one player. Electricity makes possible on the modern organ the clearest and cleanest playing of the lightest and fastest music. No more do players use fists, or need they use forceful fingers to press down the keys, for electricity is harnessed to the keys and they respond like lightning to the touch. The push of a finger throws on an overwhelming torrent of tone, while another touch reduces the tone tempest to a murmuring zephyr. The organ was a mere prince among instruments up to 1900. After that and up to fifty years ago, it was acknowledged king of instruments. But since the application of electricity to bellows, pedals, keys, swells, couplers and combination stops it is veritable "emperor of instruments."—Child Life Magazine.

How Snakes Lay Eggs

Egg-laying snakes, unlike birds, do not lay an egg each day until the laying is completed. As a rule, all the eggs laid by an oviparous snake in any given season are laid within a very short period.

The United States biological survey says a python measuring about 28 feet in length laid about 100 eggs in one day. In the case of a little ring-necked snake it was observed that in every instance except two all the eggs were deposited within one day. This species of snake lays only from three to eight eggs.

"As a general rule," says the New York Zoological park, "oviparous snakes lay all their eggs at one time, or in one day, though occasionally we have noted them to lay some one day, and some more the following day. Laying one egg a day might prove inconvenient for the python, which frequently lays from thirty to forty eggs. The chicken snake and like species usually lay eight to fourteen eggs."

How Fast Raindrops Fall

The weather bureau says that raindrops never fall faster than twenty-five feet per second; many of them fall only about fifteen feet per second. Suppose then the height of the cloud is 2,500 feet, a fairly common height, and that the speed of fall is the greatest possible—very large drops; then the time of fall will be 100 seconds. If the speed is fifteen feet per second, the time will be 166.7 seconds. A fair average velocity is twenty feet per second, and the time of fall two minutes.

How to Refresh the Eyes

The white of an egg is beaten until it is almost the consistency of meringue. After a few moments the vessel containing the white of egg is tipped so that a small amount of the slightly yellowish liquid can flow off. Two or three drops of this liquid in each eye are sufficient to soothe and clear the eye.

How Fast Storms Travel

If it is a general storm, the kind that brings rain or snow for several hours, it is practically certain to go several hundred miles to the east or southeast by the next day. This is because that is the direction of the general air movement, as determined by the rotation of the earth.

How Blind Fish Fed

In a recent catch a trawler at Lowestoft, England, caught a well-fed codfish which was totally blind. Naturalists suggest that it found food by running its barbel, or beard, along the floor of the sea and so catching small crustaceans, worms, etc.

Failure Shook Country

On September 19, 1873, the banking firm of Jay Cook and company of Philadelphia, agents of the United States government and leading bankers of the country, failed. This failure precipitated the financial panic of 1873.

Living in Poverty

Mlle. Louise Godard, great granddaughter of the Marquis de Lafayette, has been discovered living in the utmost poverty in a garret in Paris. Her sole income is a pension of 90 francs a month.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

The old Hum-Buzz Demon was at his worst from 4:55 to 7:16 Sunday afternoon and evening. Then he took a recess and only broke out for a few minutes at a time thereafter. Daylight reception was fair all day and good in the afternoon after the storm of blooping that always opens the Roxy program had subsided. Evening reception was excellent, with tuning very sharp. It was possible to separate WOC, WGY, WCAO, KTHS and WJBT while all were on the air. Two stations were added to the log—WCDA, the new Italian station near New York, and WHFC, a weak Chicago station using 215.7 meters. WCDA uses 211 meters and was very strong and clear.

Saturday afternoon and evening reception was good. Programs were notable for the number of old songs and hymns sung and for the Wild little German band.

Did you clip from The Freeman the list of cleared channels soon to go into effect. If you did not, do it now and you will be able to tell things on and after December 1 when the new arrangement goes into effect. The Freeman list covers all of these channels of any local interest. The fate of the stations cleared away is not yet known. They have probably been dumped where they will clear up channels now fairly clear.

For a third time within a month, the wavelength upon which WHAZ, the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute station at Troy broadcasts, has been ordered changed by the Federal Radio Commission. Beginning Monday evening, December 5, WHAZ will transmit its programs on a frequency of 880 kilocycles (305.8 meters) each Monday evening from 8 to 12 p. m., or later on occasion. The 305.8 meters wave is a position given Chicago stations, but as Chicago is silent on Monday night Troy will not interfere or be interfered with.

Keep youth longer!

cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol has a peculiar affinity for body poisons. Absorbs them and carries them off, because Nujol can't be absorbed by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. Perfected by the Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Write Letters To Santa Claus

Downtown Business Men's Association Gives Assurance They Will Reach Their Destination, the Same as Last Year.

The committee planning for the Christmas Celebration of the Downtown Business Men's Association have announced that all children may now start writing to Santa Claus for toys and other things they wish for Christmas. The letters may be addressed to Santa Claus in care of the Downtown Business Men's Association. Old St. Nick will surely receive the letters if sent to the merchants, for they will forward them to him as last year.

The children of Ulster county took advantage of communicating with Santa through the Downtown Business Men's Association last year and replies were sent out to the little folks by the jolly old fellow. They also received invitations to visit the downtown section during the celebration last year and were permitted to talk personally to Santa. He walked about the streets and interviewed the little folks with delight. This year Santa will again be in the downtown section, according to the plans of the merchants, and will talk with the little folks.

It is expected that St. Nick will arrive the same as last year, by way of the Rhinebeck ferry. Last year he had a team of ponies to draw his sled filled with candy. This year his method of traveling has not been announced and many are looking for his arrival with a team of reindeer. However, regardless of his method of traveling, the white whiskered old man will joyfully distribute 6,000 boxes of Christmas candy to the little people who welcome him upon his arrival.

The Downtown Business Men's Association hope that the children will write to Santa Claus as early as possible so that he may have time to fill his sled with the toys wished and get enough reindeer to draw the load. Each little boy and girl is asked by the merchants to write his or her address plainly so that Santa may be able to read it without any trouble.

Pretty Cold in Montana

Going through Montana recently we got into conversation with a native son, relates Harry Daniel in Thrift Magazine. "Gets pretty cold up here in the winter, doesn't it?" we observed.

"Well," observed the Montanian, "there's a statue of Old Man Wilbaugh, the pioneer cattle king, on a little hill over in Golden valley. There he stands with his hands hanging helplessly at his sides, while he gazes forever across the plains he loved. But, believe it or not, it got so blamed cold up here once last winter that the old man had to keep his hands in his pants pockets all day long."

Yellow Jackets Win Great Game From Soldiers, 7-6

Local Gridders Led by Hoffman Win Tough Contest Over Service Squad. Westchester in Final Game Here Thanksgiving Day.

The Kingston Yellow Jackets were given a severe test Sunday at the Fair Grounds and they proved their worth once by defeating the West Point Service eleven, 7 to 6. The Service squad, champions of West Point, came here heralded as a very formidable team with an outfit that included over thirty uniformed fighters. The soldier boys came here full of fight and the result was that the game was one of the hardest ever fought in these parts.

Kingston scored in the first quarter with Lew Hasbrouck kicking the extra point which meant victory. In the second quarter the soldiers made their touchdown.

Joey Hoffman was the star of the day. The Kingston quarterback shot around the ends for gains of fifteen to thirty yards. The entire Yellow Jacket squad played real football and due to the stiff struggle are now carrying many bruises. Straight football netted this win for the local eleven. The Kingston backfield as fast and as hard hitting as ever tore around the ends or through tackle and made gains that gave them first downs and the victory.

The Service team could not do much in line plunging and turned to forward passing, which they made a success of. Out of nine tries five passes were completed. They also made three first downs by this method.

Locals Score Early.

The game was under way but a few minutes when the Yellow Jackets tallied their seven points. After the kick-off by Hasbrouck, who was far from his self Sunday in the kicking line, the Soldiers after a few line plunges kicked the ball. Kingston upon receiving the ball fumbled and the Soldiers were again in possession of the ball. But they could not make any impressive gains and were again forced to kick. Hoffman received the ball on the 25-yard line.

From this point on the fast Yellow Jacket backfield got in action and paraded up the field. Colvin and Hasbrouck swept through the line and Hoffman skirted around the end making gains that resulted in the first score of the game.

A first down resulted from dashes by Colvin and Hasbrouck and then Hoffman made a run of eighteen yards. Hasbrouck hit again and Hoffman made another pretty run for fifteen yards. Hoffman played a smart game throughout the entire periods. After a number of plunges the ball was finally brought across the goal line.

The second team was sent in for the Service squad at the beginning of the game but when the local boys started the parade up the field an entirely new team of first stringers took the field. Hasbrouck made good on the kick which proved the winning point.

Soldiers Score.

The West Pointers scored their six points in the second quarter. Following a punt to the Kingston ten yard line Hasbrouck tried to kick out of danger but the punt went bad. Captain McGrath took the ball out of the air on the twenty yard line and raced across for a touchdown. It happened so quick the players, fans, etc., didn't know what it all was about. The tieing point was in the air and in the hands of an army end when McGrath threw a forward pass for the extra point. Bradely dropped it and Manager Dwyer insists that the soldier end wasn't bribed.

The Final Periods.

In the final periods the contest was bitterly fought. The Kingston line played like Trojans. Displaying great pluck, endurance and aggressiveness the local linemen played one of the best, if not the best game of the season.

The local backs would tear through after the line would make a hole. They kept up this attack throughout the closing periods making changes when necessary due to injuries to players. The Soldiers were smart enough to know that they were unable to make gains through the line and they relied on passing. A number of very pretty passes were completed. In the last few minutes of play John Cirrone knocked down a pass, which if completed, well it was knocked down.

Game Thanksgiving.

On Thanksgiving Day the greatest attraction of the season will be seen in action at the Fair Grounds, when the Westchester eleven opposes the Yellow Jackets.

Manager Dwyer has completed plans for this game, which is expected to draw a record crowd. A souvenir program, containing a picture of the local gridders and lineups of the teams will be distributed. Tickets are now on sale for this game and can be secured from any member of the team.

Modesty Brings Salary Boost

MODEST Wiley Moore!

Wiley Moore, the Oklahoma farmer, who pitched the Yankees to their final world's series victory over the Pirates, was purchased from the Greenville club of the South Atlantic league last season for a moderate sum.

The big farmer not only repaired the Sally league pennant for the Greenville club by winning 20 games and losing only four. The big league scouts passed him up because he was too old—he's over thirty now.

But Ed Barrow, hustler, manager of the Yanks, thought that any pitcher who could win 20 games in a season was entitled to a job with the Yankees, writes William Hentigan in the New York World. So Moore was bought by New York.

He received a contract from the Yankees this spring. The contract read that he was to receive a salary of $2,500 and $3,000 if he remained with the team during the season.

Moore was used mostly as a relief pitcher in the early part of the season and saved more than one ball game for the Yankees. Then he drew his regular turn on the mound.

Wilcy Moore.

Two months before the season closed, Moore dragged himself over to Huggins, who was sitting peacefully on the Yankees' bench at the stadium.

He stood there for a minute or two and then finally said in his farmer-like way:

"Mr. Huggins, do you think that Colonel Ruppert would be mad if I asked him for a $500 increase?"

"I don't think so," said the Yankee manager. "Why don't you go up to the office after the game?"

Moore finally reached the office after the game and talked to Eddie Barrow, business manager of the club.

"Mr. Barrow," began the pitcher, "I'd like to have an increase of $500 in my contract."

Barrow was well acquainted with the pitching of Moore and talked to Colonel Ruppert about the extra $500 that the recruit pitcher was seeking.

Did Wiley get his $500?

The old contract that Moore had was torn up and a new one calling for a salary of $5,000 was presented to him to sign.

ROAMER QUINTET BEAT LANESVILLE FIVE.

The fast stepping Roamer five of this city travelled to Lanesville Saturday night and defeated the team representing that place by a score of 35 to 33. It was one of the best games played on that court this year. The Roamers played professional rules for the first time. The Roamers were without their star center, who could not make the trip, but this position was filled by Robins who was getting the tap often.

Raichle and Cullun forwards of the Roamers were the big guns with ten points apiece. Bittner and Boyce also played in great style holding the opposing forwards to a few points Gary, the big guard of Lanesville, corralled 14 points for his team.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN AT VAN CORTLAND PARK

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Nineteen teams were entered in the 19th annual intercollege cross country championship over the six-mile Van Cortland Park course today with Penn State harriers favorites to retain the title. Bill Cox of Penn State stood out as the leading entry to defend his individual laurels attained last year.

Colleges represented in the meet include Harvard, Syracuse, Yale, Princeton, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, New York Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Cornell, Columbia, Rutgers, Massachusetts Tech, Maine, Manhattan, Fordham and City College of New York.

His First Touchdown

Capt. Bob Reitsch of the University of Illinois football team, playing his eighth year as center, scored his first touchdown recently when he intercepted a freshman pass and ran ten yards. Bob was the best pilot in the Big Seven when he captained Rockford high and was the best center in the Big Ten last season.

Old-Fashioned Football Game Is Thing of Past

Hard, straight football of the old-fashioned type is disappearing and trickery is taking its place, in the opinion of Dewey Graham, Norwich university gridiron coach.

He believes that the new rules are responsible for less interesting football for the spectators, a less of the body contact element and inferior play in several phases of the game.

"The game is more of a puzzle than a pleasure for the spectators," Graham complains. "Penalties inflicted in former years were nearly all understood by the spectators, but this year there are numerous weird rules calling for penalties that are entirely unknown to the average fan.

"The new rules tend to distract attention of players from the game. Too much is being left to the judgment of officials. Good officials are few. A great many games will be unjustly won or lost by decision of a referee, umpire or head linesman, rather than an opponent's errors or luck. The players had enough rules under the old system."

Porto Rico Has Joined National Boxing Body

The Porto Rico boxing commission has become affiliated with the National Boxing association and will regulate the sport in that country according to the regulations of the parent body, Thomas Donahue, president of the National Boxing association, announces.

Addition of Porto Rico to the N. B. A. swells the total of foreign members to four in addition to France, which has a working agreement with the association. Canada, Mexico and Cuba complete the roll that includes the boxing associations of 21 states in this country.

Porto Rico was represented in the association for the first time at the opening of the annual three-day N. B. A. convention in Toledo, Ohio.

President Donahue also announced that Billy Kennedy, New Orleans lightweight, had been suspended indefinitely by the association for failure to fulfill a contract to fight at New Haven, Conn.

K. H. S. Eleven Loses.

The Kingston High School team lost its last game of the season Saturday at Peekskill, score 20 to 0. The winners scored three touchdowns in the second half.

Utica to Play Here Thursday

Utica was accepted in the Metropolitan Basketball League and will open its season at the local armory court Thanksgiving Day, according to an announcement Sunday night by J. J. O'Brien, president of the league. The team will be managed by Fay T. Inman, widely known sports promoter, who will back it. A home game will be played Saturday with Brooklyn.

The new team was entered in the league after a conference Sunday night, after which bids for entry from Troy, Cohoes and Schenectady were discussed.

With Stanley Clark of the Utica Observer Dispatch, Lou Schuler and Dewey Steffen, all interested in the team, Inman was in Albany last Saturday and had a long discussion with both President O'Brien and "Trim" McKinstry, owner of the Albany club.

O'Brien was in Albany for a preliminary discussion at which the franchise of the Paterson team, which dropped from the loop last week, was to have been awarded. It was decided to await the final plans of teams wishing to enter the wheel before announcing a decision.

O'Brien let it be known that there is a possibility another city will be added to the league within the week. Troy is making a strong bid for entry. Troy interests, led by Neil McGrath, came to Albany Friday night to press its cause before the head official of the league. McGrath said he was working on a quintet which would insure Troy a good representative team.

Lou Schuler and Dewey Steffen will be on the Utica roster. Others being sought include Barney Sedran, Leo Malone, Marty Barry, Benny Borgmann, Stretch Meehand and Dutch Dehnert.

RED SHIELDS EASILY BEAT NEW PALTZ.

The New Paltz All-Stars fell before the fast Red Shield team here Saturday, the final score reading 81 to 33.

Closing Games On Gridiron

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Two intersectional struggles and ten renewals of old rivalries, including the annual Army-Navy classic, appear in the finale of the 1927 eastern gridiron show. Yale, the football force in this section, strutted off the stage Saturday along with their ancient enemies of Harvard, whom they vanquished 14-0.

One of the greatest of Army elevens, defeated only by Ell Yale, will meet the Middies at the Polo Grounds on Saturday. While the cadets lost prestige by the reversal from the Bulldog this was partially dispelled by their decisive triumph over Notre Dame.

New York University's eleven is enroute to Lincoln for their second annual encounter with the Nebraskans which takes place on Thanksgiving Day while Carnegie Tech journeys to Portland, Ore., to engage with the Oregon aggies on Saturday.

Among the old feuds which will break forth afresh on Thursday are those between Cornell and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Brown and Colgate at Providence; Pittsburgh and Penn State at Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson and West Virginia at Morgantown, Maryland and Johns Hopkins at Baltimore, Columbia and Syracuse at New York, Catholic University and George Washington at Washington, and Bucknell and Dickinson at Lewisburg.

On Saturday Holy Cross and Boston College will meet in their yearly tussle at the Hub.

Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson in their contests will be striving to keep a clean slate. They had one tie game, a scoreless deadlock against each other.

NEW YORK GIANTS BEAT CHICAGO ELEVEN

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—The New York Giants maintained their pace as leaders in the National Pro-Football League today as a result of a 28-7 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

Before a crowd of 15,000 at the Polo Grounds yesterday, the Giants started off with a rush and scored three touchdowns in the opening quarter, two of them coming as a result of long forward passes hurled by Jack McBride, ex-Syracuse star, who also raced 15 yards across the goal line for a third.

New Records in Next Scrap

Tex Rickard.

TEX RICKARD launched his campaign for a new record in heavyweight prize fights.

It may or may not bring Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey together for a third battle.

Rickard is certain of only one thing—that Tunney's next defense of his world's championship will be under Tex's promotion.

Rickard is not prepared to say who Gene's opponent will be.

Neither is he ready to announce in what city the next extravaganza will be held, although he favors New York.

But he is hoping that whatever the details may be, it will provide a new record in attendance and gate receipts, and that Tunney's reign as king of the heavies will prove even more profitable to him than did Dempsey's.

Tex is willing to admit that he reaped a harvest of approximately $1,400,000 by promoting fights in which Dempsey engaged, and despite the suggestion from many followers of the fight game that Tunney is by no means the box office attraction that Dempsey was, Rickard is likely to make more money under Gene than he made under Jack.

As for Gene's next opponent, Rickard spiked the reports that he was definitely planning a third engagement between Tunney and Dempsey with a declaration that he intended to conduct a series of elimination bouts this winter, the winner to meet Tunney next summer.

"I am not considering a third Tunney-Dempsey fight," Rickard said. "But I would be glad to have Dempsey enter the elimination series, and if he comes through on top, then there certainly would be no better man to meet Tunney.

"At any rate, we'll have a fight next year if we can find some one to give Tunney a good fight."

Gene, who was sitting near enough to hear Rickard's comments, added a touch of spice to the proceedings by suggesting:

"Or maybe a good licking."

Make Big Money in Swimming

If you would meet Dame Fortune face to face wear a swimming suit.

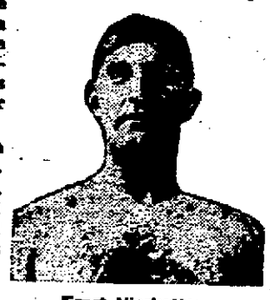
Gertrude Ederle set the style when she swam the English channel last summer. She was immediately deluged with theatrical and motion picture contracts, and, because her father was a butcher, she was honored by the meat dealer associations throughout the country.

Gertrude Ederle.

Then came Mrs. Millie Gade Corson, who also swam the channel and collected for it with vaudeville tours.

George Young, the young Toronto swimmer, was next to be chosen by the fickle Dame Fortune, writes H. H. Barcus in the Detroit News. He swam the Catalina island channel, received a big cash prize and toured the country in vaudeville.

Now we have Ernst Vierkotter, a German swimmer, who last year made the English channel swim in 12 hours and 42 minutes. He was an amateur at the time and did not collect on the race. He turned pro recently, competing in and winning the Toronto swim for which he received a prize of $30,000, and in a few days he had contracts for vaudeville, motion pictures, writing books, advertising various articles, phonograph records and other things aggregating $145,000.



Ernst Vierkotter.

Before he is through, it is likely he will clean up a quarter of a million dollars.

Vierkotter is twenty-seven years old, stands 5 feet 11½ inches in height and weighed 182 pounds when he entered the Toronto swim. He lost 12¾ pounds in the race.

The new swimming champion, the only one to win two international races, has only one good eye. His right eye was punched out when he was a child by a hat pin in the hands of his young sister.

Leagues Worth $50,000,000

The American and National leagues each have increased in value over $1,000,000 a year since 1915, says Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees. Ruppert placed the present value of the sixteen teams in baseball's premier circuits at $50,000,000.

When the Yankees' colonels, Rupert and T. L. Huston, bought the club in 1915, they paid $200,000. It is doubtful whether $3,000,000 would purchase the Yankees today, for Ruppert declared that Babe Ruth alone, when he has completed his present three-year contract with the team, will represent an investment of $600,000, including salary and purchase price.

Col. Jacob Ruppert.

Rupert set the valuation of each major league at $25,000,000 at present quotations, whereas, he said both leagues did not exceed that sum in value twelve years ago.

This amazing growth, Ruppert said, was due to the influence of other sports and to the added leisure of present-day Americans. "The American idea used to be to work early and late. A business man then started at eight and quit at six. Now he starts at nine and quits early in the afternoon."

"Golf is supposed to have taken patronage from the ball parks, but I believe golf has increased interest in baseball because of a common bond—you might call it the sporting, the athletic complex," he said.

Bismarck Was Hungry

"So hungry I can't sit up straight," was sometimes the plaint of Otto von Bismarck, and according to Herr Emil Ludwig's book on the Iron Chancellor, his remedy was to stuff himself so full he could not bend in any direction.

"I took some stuffed eel, boiled ham and porridge," he writes of one supper, "and ate several sausages next. But had too much and had to take some rum. I finished a box of figs, and while I write you I am eating my second box of marzipan and drinking a crock of Erfurter rock-cellar beer. It is excellent!"

He figured he smoked 100,000 cigars in five years and killed 5,000 bottles of champagne.

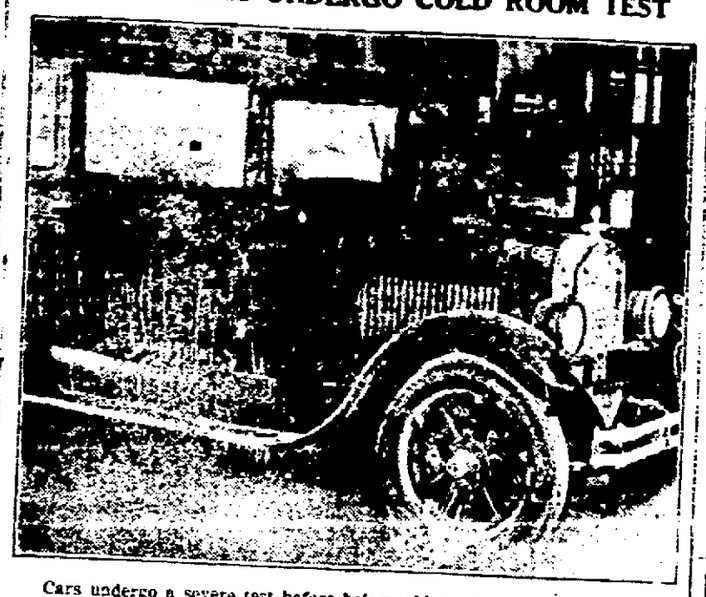
AUTOMOBILES UNDERGO COLD ROOM TEST



Cars undergo a severe test before being sold to the public. At a Detroit laboratory automobiles are given the "cold-room" test, where cars are operated under a temperature of about 35 degrees blow zero. The photograph shows an automobile just emerged from the "cold room."

Bahama Industries

Fruit culture is on the increase in the Bahama Islands and is becoming an important industry. Tomatoes pineapples and oranges are cultivated. Sponge and sisal are the principal commodities on many of the islands. Oxen, sheep, horses and other live stock have been introduced from Europe. They thrive well but not much attention is paid to live-stock raising.

The Guyed Guide

The guide was guiding a guy. As the guide guided the guy, the guide guyed the guy until the guy would no longer be guyed by the guide whom he had hired not a guy but to guide. So the guyed guy guyed the guide. No wonder everyone guyed the guyed guide guiding a guyed guy.—Boston Transcript.

Sunshine Whitens Ivory

When ivory ornaments become yellow wash them well in soap and water, then place them while still wet in the sunshine. Wet them with soapy water for two or three days several times a day, still keeping them in the sunshine. Wash again and they will be perfectly white.

Adapted by Wesley

Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations" traces the saying "Cleanliness is next to Godliness" to the writings of the Hebrew Fathers. The expression was probably popularized by John Wesley, who quoted it in his sermon on dress.

Evening Gowns Run From the Sophistication of Black Velvet and Taffeta to the Simplicity of Soft and Flattering Chiffon.

New York.—It naturally depends largely on the number of evening gowns one requires to get comfortably through the social season, what types one selects. Women who are fortunate enough to be able to wear a dress two or three times and then discard it, can, of course, take a greater gamble in new and extreme models. For such, it does seem as though a great percentage of this season's models were intended. There is, after all, safety in numbers, whether in dresses or anything else.

For those who are restricted to a limited number of models and must have those which give good service, ultra types are always an unwise choice. The newer frocks, with swishing panels and conspicuous drapes or detail, are advised for the woman who can afford to be sensational.

There are crisp, important-looking frocks, much longer, much wider, much more daring in decollette than formerly, and many of these frocks run to stunning and striking embellishments, jeweled effects, and so on, but these do not belong to the conservative surroundings, nor are they adaptable to every occasion. Such frocks in black velvet or taffeta are sophisticated to a degree. They are the frocks of Paris and of functions anywhere, and are quite apart from the soft chiffon, usually so flattering and always so friendly at intimate gatherings, and so adaptable to travel and to week-ending.

These subscribe to irregular lines, jagged arrangements that are reminiscent of handkerchief points, petals, and so on, although quite dissimilar in exception. An extremely long point at one hip, a long back or front line, and any number of overlapping circular effects are involved in producing the soft chiffon dress of the hour.

Horseshoe Falls Cut Back

The larger of the two cataracts at Niagara, Horseshoe falls, is receding at the rate of about five feet a year, says Nature Magazine. The travel of the American falls is much slower—only a few inches a year. The time the cataract has taken to cut its way back to its present site has been much discussed among geologists, whose estimates vary from 7,000 to [illegible] years.

Velvet Is Leader in Fashion Field

Material Used in Almost Every Item of Milady's Outer Wardrobe.

Velvet, most regal of fabrics and long favored by kings, reigns supreme this season in the field of fashion. Knowing that velvet possesses a rich depth of color and an exquisiteness of texture to be found in no other material, the smart woman enjoys such full that this flattering [illegible] favor with those who set the fashions.

This season she has a triple in vain for velvet enjoys a fashion prestige that extends to almost every item of a woman's outer wardrobe.

The new velvets usually called transparent or georgette, possess a sheerness that enables them to be draped and shirred and even tucked without becoming bulky. And so it is that many velvet dresses parade slim at the same time that they take on very graceful lines and an air of femininity through the use of tiers, jabots, shirred tunics, side draperies and crushed girdles.

The all-velvet dinner frock is very elegant, but for afternoon occasions many women choose frocks of crepe satin with velvet introduced in a tunic or in bandings around the neck, sleeves and hem. Another stunning dress combines a blouse of metal embroidered georgette with a circular skirt of velvet.

A black velvet skirt with the blouse of yellow embroidered in gold, or blue embroidered in silver makes a charming costume appropriate for any informal occasion. A brown velvet skirt with a blouse of beige is equally good looking and follows the present vogue for the brown shades. Among printed velvets the polka-dot pattern is smart and makes some very delightful afternoon dresses.

Velvet in hats as well as in dresses is frequently smartest when combined with some fabric, and it is when combined with felt that the velvet hat is most appropriate for wear with wool frock or tweed coat. Dressier afternoon models combine velvet with soleil and while the the all-black hat is seen in the greatest numbers there is a vogue for combining colors as well as fabrics. Blue and black, brown and beige, and two shades of green are seen but these are only worn with costumes in the same color combinations.

Stitched velvets in vagabond shapes go well with outdoor clothes and are often chosen by the college girl and those who follow her lead in the matter of dress.

Brimless hats of the off-the-face styles that are good in all hats find many of their smartest versions in velvet. To wear with frocks of velvet or satin one may well choose a small all-velvet draped turban. Another version, particularly youthful, is the tam draped velvet.

Reversible Negligee Is Practical, Becoming

Thoroughly practical and becoming is this feminine negligee with cape sleeves. To some extent the style may be varied to suit individual tastes, says the Woman's Home Companion. Since the band is straight it may be crushed tightly around the neck or it may be spread over the shoulders and the inner edge turned back an inch or two for a narrow collar showing the contrasting color. Soft luxurious silks with supple draping are the most flattering. Crepe de chine, satin or velvet lined with another fabric is effective.

Rhinestones, Imitations Worn on Evening Dresses

Jewelry is encroaching noticeably upon flowers as the favorite accessory for evening. The ambitious pendant brooch is an established article of wear and more often graces the smartly simple frock of satin or chiffon than does the artificial flower. Rhinestones and colored stones set in silver, which shows them off almost as effectively as platinum would, are usually used for the new brooches. Some of them are as long as six inches. The left shoulder is the favorite place to wear them.

EDWARD J. McCARDLE,

Samplers First Made for Use as Patterns

The sampler is one of the oldest compositions in needlecraft. It made its appearance early in the Sixteenth century. It was then called "samcloth," and came into popular use because of the "great scarcity and high price of lace-pattern books," so we are informed by an old authority on the subject. All the earliest laces and openwork embroideries, such as cutwork, reticella, drawn-thread work, and so on, were copied on these "samcloths" by those who had not money to purchase the rare and expensive pattern-books; hence the sampler was originally made for the purpose of obtaining and keeping a worthwhile design, or one that appealed to the worker. Later, when the sources of pattern-supply became more plentiful and less expensive, so that the original service of the sampler was no longer of value, it was then made "to exhibit the skill of the embroiderer," usually a pupil at school, and was often framed and hung up to display to admiring friends. Indeed, no young lady's education during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries was considered quite complete until she had "embroidered in silks and gold thread a sampler with a bordering of drawn-thread and a center filled with representations of animals, flowers and trees, accompanied by verses appropriate to the undertaking."

Preferred to Make Her Plea in English

A little five-year-old miss had learned to say her prayers in English, when her grandmother started to teach her to say them in French. It was a part of home instruction in French, and the little miss was picking up the second language rapidly.

However, her program in saying her prayers in French halted a bit, as the youngster had a little difficulty in getting her tongue around several words. One hot evening, in the midst of her home lesson in French, she stopped and said:

"Grandma, can't God understand my prayers in English?"

"Why, yes," replied grandmother. "He understands all languages."

"Well," said the little miss, "if it's all the same to God, I'll say them in English tonight."

His Conditions

The young man waited for the millionaire's reply.

"I don't blame you for wanting to marry my daughter," said the latter. "And now how much do you suppose you and she can worry along on?"

The youth brightened up.

"I—I think," he cheerfully stammered, "that £200,000 well invested would produce a sufficient income."

The millionaire turned back to his papers.

"Very well," he said, "I will give you £100,000, provided you can raise a similar amount."

And the young man went away sorrowing.—London Opinion.

Population Increase

It is known that every day about 100,000 persons die and 150,000 are born. Which means that every day the sun sets on 50,000 more people than were on earth when it rose. Never before in human history have births been 50 per cent more than deaths. Taking this as a basis for figures, Edward Roos notes in the Century Magazine that doubling the world's population in sixty years indicates that the earth's inhabitants have increased ten-fold in two centuries. At this rate there will be only a square yard of arable land to a person 1,000 years hence.—Capper's Weekly.

Formosa's Head-Hunters

Kampanzan Savages of Formosa.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

FORMOSA, where a recent earthquake took heavy toll of life, is still inhabited by savage head-hunters who have resisted the development of the island's resources. Formosa is larger than Maryland and Rhode Island combined but the region extending from the mountains that form the backbone of the island to the rocky eastern coast is yet to be wrested from the tribesmen.

The civilized agricultural regions along the western side of Formosa were so menaced by the head-hunters during the middle of the last century that the government of China, which owned the island at that time, built a high metal fence for more than a hundred miles along the border of the wilderness. Some sections of the fence are now charged with electricity. The Japanese who took the island from the Chinese in 1895 have extended the barrier until the tribesmen are shut off from civilization. Heavily guarded gates at frequent intervals permit the savages to trade with the Formosans but no savage is allowed to come into the "foreign" territory and no "foreigner" is allowed to enter the savages' domain without special permission of the Japanese police and a well-armed guard.

Back in the mountain recesses, the tribesmen live in compact villages, so camouflaged that one is within their confines before realizing it. The huts are built of large slabs of slate with thatched roofs that resemble the thick foliage of the forest. There is no furniture. When the savage rests, he squats as if ready to spring upon his prey, or lies on the floor.

No tribesman's hut is complete without a skull shelf just outside the door. His shelf may have a hundred pigeonholes, each containing the skull of a human being. It is as indicative of his glory as the trophy cabinet of a modern Olympic star.

Women Insist on Heads.

The women have been blamed for maintaining this ghastly custom, for among some tribes the maidens will not listen to the pleadings of a suitor until he has at least one skull on his shelf. When there are no victims within easy reach of the village the ardent swain goes to the borderland of civilization, sometimes digging his way under or climbing over the fence. The first person who crosses his path is his victim. Failing in this, he may attack a member of a neighboring tribe.

It is so common for a Chinaman living near the savage border to lose his head that little attention is paid to the incident unless his relations band together to avenge the murder. Freshly severed heads must be displayed at various savage festivals, religious rites and on other occasions too numerous for the safety of the Formosans.

Since the Japanese have owned Formosa, towns more modern than those in Japan and China have been built, schools established, harbors improved, and a railroad built nearly the entire length of the island. Now there are approximately 4,000,000 inhabitants. More than three-fourths of them are natives who are of Chinese extraction or an admixture of Chinese and aborigines. The aborigines number about 84,000. The remainder of the population is made up of Japanese and foreigners.

Taihoku, the capital, lying 18 miles inland from the port of Keelung, has been called the most modern city of the Japanese empire. Wide, well-paved streets, fine parks, large handsome government buildings and a botanical garden give it more of a Western than an oriental appearance. For a busy city of 150,000 inhabitants, it is unusually quiet. There are no street cars, and automobile traffic is not yet large enough to disturb the population. Hundreds of jinrikishas are propelled through the streets by Formosan "chauffeurs" in spotlessly clean white uniforms and large picturesque mushroom hats. Save for the pitter-patter of their soft shoes as they carefully transport their fares, and the occasional rumble of a heavy wooden-wheeled cart, one hears only the sing-song of oriental tongues.

Japanese orderliness marks every move of the Formosans. All through the civilized portion of the island one notices the effect of Japanese government. From the window of the train all the way from Taihoku to Tainan, the old Chinese capital near the southern end of the island, the traveler sees miles of flooded rice fields in the lowlands while higher land is systematically planted to sugar cane, tea, sweet potatoes and tobacco. Farther back toward the hills, camphor trees vie with huge bamboos. Men and women work side by side in the fields. Because of their loose-fitting garments and mushroom hats, one cannot detect the sex of the workers at a distance.

Its Products Are Large.

Although thousands of miles of the island have scarcely been touched by civilization, in a recent year Formosa produced approximately 25,000,000 bushels of rice, 25,000 tons of sugar, 12,000 tons of tea, 1,000,000 tons of coal, 3,000 tons of camphor, and 5,000 tons of camphor oil. Petroleum, gold, silver, copper, jute, opium, tobacco and salt also are important products.

Opium is sold only to old licensed smokers and the number of users is reduced each year. Among the natives both men and women smoke tobacco in long-stemmed bamboo pipes and many chew betel nut.

The need for new sources of camphor has been one of the principal causes for the development of the island. When the trees on the civilized side of the boundary fence have been leveled and supplies diminish, the fence is moved back into savage territory; for the constant demand for the product is too great to await the maturity of new trees that the Japanese have recently planted. This gradual encroachment on the savage domain and the plan to penetrate certain parts of the interior with roads and railroads, should bring the entire island under Japanese control in a few years.

Peril of Camphor Workers.

Many of the camphor stations are near the head-hunters' district. While the Japanese are bringing the savages more under control each year, and a heavy guard is constantly on duty among the workers, raids on these stations are not uncommon occurrences. The huge trees are felled and then chipped with a scooplike cutting instrument. When small cars, that the workers push on a narrow gauge track, are filled, the load is consigned to a camphor still where the cuttings are transformed into pure camphor by a boiling process. Attached to the still bamboo pipes take off the camphor oil. A large quantity of the world-production of camphor of which about three-fourths comes from Formosa, is used in the manufacture of celluloid, perfumes and drugs. As is the case with many of the larger industries of Formosa, the Japanese government has a monopoly of the camphor business and dictates its own price by which the product is purchased from the individual producers.

In the wilderness, one cannot mistake a head-hunter for a harmless native if he keeps his head long enough to see one approach. For clothes they wear a single piece of cloth that reaches from their armpits to their knees, around their hips is a huge knife encased in a bamboo scabbard, and some of them carry bows and arrows to assist them in their head-hunting activities.

Most of them are tattooed with a blue substance that adds to their already uncomely features. Every savage child is forced to submit to the cruel operation which is performed by holding the victim on a bamboo mat on the ground while wooden chisels and hammers are used to break the skin.

Natives and savages of Formosa are fond of fishing. Instead of using a hook and line, the savages throw a narcotic fluid into the water, which stupifies the fish and causes them to float on the surface. Then, in their home-made craft of bamboo trees lashed together, they collect their catch.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov 21 (AP)—Major speculative activity in today's stock market, which was unusually broad in character, continued on the upward course. Quotations irregularly developed at times, however, on selling inspired by the belief that a "technical reaction" was in order as a result of the rapidity of the recent advance in many issues. Gains of one to six points were scattered throughout the list, with more than 25 issues breaking into new high ground for the year.

Operators for the rise were aided in their operations by favorable trade news which included a rally of $3 a bale in cotton prices, increases in brass and export copper prices, and unofficial predictions from steel centers of another increase in steel prices. Call money continued in plentiful supply at 3½ per cent.

Pivotal industries were again in rather free supply, but scale buying held the declines to narrow limits. The fact that the ticker was 17 minutes late, at times, in printing quotations caused some selling by bear traders, who apparently hoped to unsettle the market by taking advantage of the confusion which usually attends such delays.

In the copper group, Kennecott, Anaconda and Calumet and Arizona topped their previous peak prices of the year. Other issues to attain new maximums were Packard and Hupp Motors, Detroit Edison, Radio, Shubert Theatres, Fox Film, Congress Cigar, Sears Roebuck, National Biscuit, Fleischmanns and International Paper.

Quotations given by Parker McElroy & Co., members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York city, branch office, 260 Fair street.

Maria Mulhare, wife of the late Patrick Hicks, died at her home, 240 West 61st street, Brooklyn, on November 17. There was a requiem Mass celebrated at Holy Trinity Church, 82nd street near Broadway, this morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Kingston.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Frohlich, widow of the late Gustav Frohlich, who died at her home in Newark, N. J., Friday, will be held privately from the home of her son, Arthur W. Frohlich, 298 Washington avenue this city. Friends may view the remains there this evening. Besides her son, Mrs. Frohlich is survived by two daughters, Lillian M. and Julia S. Frohlich of Newark, N. J. Interment will be in Wiltwyck cemetery.

Mrs. Catherine Van Nostrand, widow of the late J. B. Van Nostrand, died suddenly Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Rose, Ridgewood, N. J. Mrs. Van Nostrand was formerly from Port Ewen. A son, Clarence Van Nostrand of Oklahoma City, and two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Finger of Poughkeepsie, and Mrs. Martha Hutchings of Kingston, survive. Interment in Port Ewen cemetery Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Funeral services for Elmer D. Gildersleeve, who died at Poughkeepsie, Saturday, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Friends Church. He was born July 11, 1846, had lived at Poughkeepsie most of his life and was a brother of the late Justice Henry Alger Gildersleeve, of the state Supreme court. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Smith J. Gildersleeve, his mother being the former Miss Rachel Alger. His wife, a daughter, Mrs. Alfred S. Hamilton, of Montclair, N. J., and two sons, Roger M. Gildersleeve of New York, and Elmer D. Gildersleeve, Jr., of Poughkeepsie, survive.

Edwin Marchant, a veteran of the Civil War, died Sunday evening at his home in Connelly. Beside his wife he is survived by two sons, Richard Marchant of Kingston, and Charles F. Marchant of New York city; three daughters, Mrs. Josephine Hotaling at home, Mrs. J. V. Wemple of Saugerties, and Mrs. Treadwell Wilson of Connelly. Mr. Marchant was an active member of the Methodist Church at Connelly for many years, a member of Pratt Post, G. A. R., and was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the late residence and from the Methodist Church at Connelly at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Port Ewen cemetery.

Mrs. Carolina Schoenfeld, wife of Frederick Reiss, died Sunday night in this city. Besides her husband she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Henry Miller, Mrs. Roscoe Williams and Miss Edna Reiss; one son, Edward Bock; her father, John Schoenfeld; a sister, Mrs. Andrew Rothgaber, and a brother, Amel Schoenfeld, all of Kingston, and fourteen grandchildren. Mrs. Schoenfeld was an active member of the Ladies' Aid Society and the Sewing Circle of the Immanuel Lutheran Church on Livingston street and was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Funeral services from the late residence, 331 East Chester street Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and from the Immanuel Lutheran Church at 2:30. Interment in Montrepose Cemetery.

The funeral of John F. Noonan, who died on Wednesday last, was held from the home of his brother, Dominick Noonan, 418 Hasbrouck avenue, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 9:30 a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. F. X. FitzPatrick. St. Mary's children's choir sang the responses during the Mass and at the conclusion rendered "Jesus, Jesus, Come to Me". There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes from sorrowing relatives and friends, together with a number of spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards which were placed near the casket. The casket bearers were Thomas McGrane, Michael Ryan, Francis Brennan, Martin Meehan, Thomas and Francis Noonan. Father FitzPatrick accompanied the funeral cortege to St. Mary's Cemetery and pronounced the final absolution as the body was laid to rest in the family plot.

The funeral of the late Mary Hannah Sudam Ingraham was held Saturday morning from Holy Cross Church, where a low Mass of requiem was celebrated by the rector of the church, the Rev. Gregory Mabry, at 10 o'clock. During the Mass the full choir very beautifully sang four hymns and Gounod's "Ave Verum". Following the Mass the absolution of the body was pronounced by Father Mabry. While the services were of the uttermost simplicity, in compliance with the directions of the deceased, yet the sanctuary was filled with clergy and acolytes. Seated in the sanctuary were the Rev. R. Stewart Bert and the Rev. R. S. Horaby, members of the clergy staff at Holy Cross, and the Rev. James Cameron of Rosendale. A host of friends filled the nave of the church. F. J. R. Clarke, Samuel L. Drake, Charles H. De la Vergne, William C. DeWitt, Theodore E. Smith and Robert G. Groves were the pall bearers. The interment was in the family plot in Wiltwyck cemetery. Born in Memphis, Tenn., the daughter of the late Duncan Ingraham and Julia Sudam Ingraham, Miss Ingraham was of distinguished lineage. At the death of her father Miss Ingraham came to Kingston with her mother to make her home, at a very early age. Here she spent her life, recognized as one of the distinguished personages in the city. Miss Ingraham was a devoted communicant of Holy Cross Church, active in many parish societies. For a number of years she was directress of the Girls' Friendly Society. At the time of her death she was president of the Woman's Auxiliary and branch secretary of the Guild of All Souls. She was an ardent missionary, and for years had spent all of her time in visiting the sick, the poor, the aged, the unfortunate and the forgotten. Noble of character and deeply religious she literally gave herself in the service of humanity. A person of great social charm and superb bearing, a great wit, and a genius for friendship, she was surrounded with friends of all ages. Her quaint home in John street was a salon to which many people were attracted. She was the epitome of all the best American traditions, and in her death Kingston has lost one of its most interested, useful and beloved inhabitants.

JOCKO NO MORE INMATE OF MUNICIPAL BARN

Jocko, the monkey at Forsyth Park, is no longer a member of the city zoo, but is now stopping at the Roosa Inn on the Flatbush road. Jocko spent the winter months in a cage in the Municipal Barn on East O'Reilly street from which he occasionally broke loose. The last time he obtained his freedom he bit William Pratt, city engineer, in the hand so severely it required five stitches to close the wound. As Jocko was an ugly beast it was decided to get rid of him.

The annual Thanksgiving eve dance at the Masonic Club will be held on Wednesday evening at the club rooms. Music will be furnished by Zucca's orchestra.

Humble Beginning of York's Great Minster

York minster, erected 1,300 years ago, owes its conception to the passion of an early English king. It was Edwin, the king of Northumbria, whose ardent love for a Christian princess caused him to erect the first minster. Edwin was a pagan then, and Eadbald, king of Kent, refused to sanction a marriage between his sister Ethelburga and Edwin, holding it unlawful for a Christian maiden to be wed to a pagan. However, Edwin's love for the princess ruled his every action and he resolved to become a Christian. History records that they were married while Edwin was still a pagan. Bishop Paulinus, who held great sway at Eadbald's court, did not hide his disapproval of the match, but he was a wise man, and instead of wasting time in idle words he set about the task, with the aid of the new queen, of converting Edwin. On Easter day, 627, Edwin was baptized in a small wooden church called St. Peter the Apostle, and this was the first minster of York. The primitive structure was later enclosed in a stone building at Edwin's request, but before it was completed, the convert was assassinated by Oswald, who became his successor. A Norman cathedral, years after, marked the spot where the first minster stood, and where the present great minster now stands.—London Tit-Bits.

Habit, Not Instinct, Is Mankind's Ruler

What a world there is behind that one word habit! If you would get close to human nature, forget all you ever have heard about instincts and throw away your notions about natural bents and predispositions and innate talents and "blood," because man is not that kind of animal. He is a creature of habits—a few bad ones can ruin him for life. Look into habits—find out how they start, how they are formed, how they end, how they may be broken, et cetera, and why some are good and some simply ruinous. Note especially how emotional habits eternally move us this way and that. And before you decide that this boy or that woman never was fitted for this or that role, remember that any one of a dozen bad emotional habits may make success impossible in almost any direction. These habits were made, not born—George A. Dorsey, in Cosmopolitan.

Not of Indian Origin

As to the origin of the expression "Indian summer," Mr. Albert Matthews has shown that it does not occur anywhere either in printed books or manuscripts until the year 1794, but at that time it was in use throughout the Atlantic states. The popular belief that Indian summer weather was predicted by the native Indians in conversation with the first European settlers finds no documentary corroboration, and the idea that the term "Indian summer" was employed by the early settlers seems to be a myth. In general, neither this term nor anything corresponding to it is to be found in any Indian language. The term "Indian Summer" in its present usage was introduced into England from America. In 1778 Horace Walpole used the same expression, but he evidently had in mind the intense heats of the midsummer weather in India and the West Indies.

Give a married man enough rope and he'll smoke himself to death.

Society Notes

The Brooklyn Eagle of Saturday states that Miss Eleanor B. Halliday's engagement to Stanley W. Zieback of Los Angeles, California, was announced last week at a bridge given by her cousin, Miss Helen Benisch, with whom she resides at 54w Argyle road. She is the daughter of Mrs. James Halliday of Kingston.

Celebrated His Birthday.

Master Burton L. Morgan celebrated his fifth birthday Friday at his home, 69 Prospect street. He was the recipient of a number of useful and pretty presents from his many friends and neighbors, who expressed their wishes for many more happy birthdays for Master Burton.

A Birthday Party.

Anna Lenihan entertained a number of her friends at a party at her home on Ponckhockie street in honor of her fourteenth birthday. Dancing, games and solos were enjoyed by all. Dainty refreshments were served, the color scheme being pink and white. The guests departed wishing Anna many more happy birthdays. Those present were Rita McAndrew, Mary Jenks, Margaret Larkin, Alice Schuler, Rose Deegan, Rose Roux, Floria Bernard, Rita Lenihan, Rosemary Lenihan and Anna Lenihan, George Hizen, Frank McCloskey, John Hyland, Raymond Lang, Floyd Mower, Martin Lenihan and Gerard Mower.

Christiana-Passage.

New York, Nov. 19, (Special).—A former resident of High Falls, N. Y., Vernon Christiana, Jr., 27, a contractor, now living at 891 Main street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Miss Alma Passage, 35, a nurse, of 227 East 32nd street, New York, obtained a marriage license at the Municipal Building here today. They stated that they would be married today, but did not say where the wedding would take place. Mr. Christiana was born in High Falls, the son of Vernon and Mary Kearney Christiana. The bride, who is the daughter of George E. and Anna Duel Passage, was born in Albany, N. Y.

Reception to Mrs. Kristeller.

The tradition which has been established of the guests of Dreamland Farm of Kyserike, annually tendering a reception to Mrs. Frederick W. Kristeller in New York city, is being continued. This year the reunion and reception, dance and supper will be held at Hotel Astor, Broadway and 44th street, New York city, on Friday evening, December 2. The committee in charge report that they expect over 500 will attend. In past years quite a number of the friends of Dreamland Farm and of Mr. and Mrs. Kristeller have taken this opportunity to combine a visit to the city and a renewal of friendships made during the summer, and special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of visitors from Ulster county.

Birthday Surprise Party.

On Saturday evening, November 11, parents, brothers and cousins united in giving a very pleasant surprise party for Maurice Duffy on his 18th birthday at his home at Goldrick's Landing. The young people spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening in games and dancing. At midnight a bountiful buffet supper was served by Mrs. Duffy with the help of Miss Margaret and Molly Fay. Those present were Miss Margaret Fay, Agnes Fay, Anna Hart, Jane Mauro, Margaret Fatrick, Clara and Teresa Fatrick, Mr. and Mrs. George Fay, Mr. and Mrs. George Duffy and Billy, Tom Fay, Edward Buckley, Peter McManus, Andrew Campbell, Gus Hart, Walter Coneski, Peter Dlizik, James Reau, Frederick Nusco, Frank Puglise, Louis Carpino, Tom Carpino, George Duffy, Jr., Francis Duffy and Maurice Duffy. At a late hour the party ended with a shower of present and good wishes for many more such birthdays.

A Miscellaneous Shower.

On Wednesday evening, November 16, a surprise miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. William Brophy of 22 Smith avenue in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Helen Lowe to John Young of Ruby. There were approximately thirty of her relatives and friends present from whom she received many beautiful gifts. Refreshments were served, the room being very prettily decorated with colors of the season. Miss Alice Bilyou entertained with a solo. The guests departed wishing her a long and happy married life. Those present were Dorothy Young, Catherine Gorseline, Jennie Englebreght, Elizabeth Englebreght, Dorothy Englebreght, Jennie Lindhurst, Edna Fischang, Catherine Nagele, Ella Carter, Anna Young, Margaret Mulholland, Jennie Entrott, Alice Bilyou, Mr. and Mrs. C. Young, Mrs. N. Brophy, Mrs. Carr, Mrs. T. Clancy, Mrs. C. Entrett, Mrs. M. Entrott, Mrs. A. McClurg, Mrs. C. Mulholland, George Brophy, Joe Young, James Fitzpatrick, John Young, Mr. and Mrs. William Brophy and son, Billie.

Hence-Castor.

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at St. Joseph's Church on Sunday afternoon when Miss Frances Elizabeth Castor of No. 7 Washington avenue, and Matthew F. Bence of 22 Staples street were united in marriage by the Rev. Edmund Burke. The bride was charming in a gown of white satin and lace with a hat of gold brocade. Her bouquet was of bride's roses, sweet peas and swansonia. Her sister, Mrs. Clarence W. Perry, was matron of honor, her dress was geranium georgette and lace with silver slippers and hat and she carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses. Clarence W. Perry was the groom's attendant. Preceding the ceremony Samuel D. Scudder, organist, and Eugene L. Castor, brother of the bride, violinist, beautifully rendered "Romanza" in G Minor by Trinkaus; "The Swan," by Camille Saint-Saens. They also played the Bridal March by Lohengrin. The altar was decorated with large baskets of chrysanthemums. After the ceremony the families of the bride and groom proceeded to the bride's home where a buffet lunch was served. After a honeymoon in the south, Mr. and Mrs. Bence will occupy a recently purchased and newly furnished home at No. 4 Washington avenue, and will be at home to their many friends after December 15.

Smith-Powell.

The marriage of Theodore Eugene Smith of West Park, N. Y., and Miss Lillian Grinnell Powell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Paul Powell of Easton, Maryland, was solemnized this morning in the Church of the Holy Cross in this city at 10 o'clock. Preceding the ceremony Walter J. Kidd, Jr., organist of the Church of the Holy Cross, played a recital of music while the guests assembled. For the entrance of the bridal party the organist played the March from "Athalie". Accompanied by two servers, the Rev. Father Gregory Mabry, rector of Holy Cross, appeared in the sanctuary while the groom and his best man, his son, Theodore Smith, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y., came from the vestry and went to the altar rail to await the bride. Preceded by Mrs. Julius J. Chisholm of Auburn, N. Y., her sister, the matron of honor, the bride made her way up the center aisle escorted by her brother-in-law, Julius J. Chisholm of Auburn, who gave her in marriage. While the officiant prepared for the nuptial Mass to follow Miss Edith Mayer and Herman LaTour, contralto and tenor soloists of the church, sang Saint-Saens's "Ave Maria", the bride and bridegroom kneeling at faldstools covered with rare brocade. During the Mass Mr. LaTour sang Cesar Franck's "Panis Angelicus" and the organist played softly Bach-Gounod's "Ave Maria". At the end of the Mass the bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March. The bride wore the wedding gown of her mother, worn fifty-four years ago. It was a silver gray faille silk, made in the fashion of that day, with great sweeping train, and trimmed with rare laces which have been in the bride's family for several generations. She wore a headdress of old lace and silver tulle, with old-fashioned lace mitts on her hands, and carried a formal nosegay of small roses. Mrs. Chisholm wore a pink Moire silk gown and a watergreen poke bonnet which had been worn by the bride's great-grandmother a hundred and twenty-five years ago. She, too, wore lace mitts and carried a nosegay of small pink and blue flowers. The only decorations used were vases of deep pink chrysanthemums on the high altar and at the shrines. Mrs. Smith was educated at Kemper Hall, Kenosha, Wis., and in Belgium. She has many friends in Kingston as well as in Chicago and Akron, Ohio. Mr. Smith is a retired banker of Akron, Ohio, who took up his residence in Ulster county some five years ago. He is great-grandson of the famous James Duane of New York. He was born and reared in New York and was graduated at the College of the City of New York and the Columbia Law School. The marriage was very quiet owing to recent bereavement, and was attended only by relatives and intimate friends. The newly married couple left for a fortnight's journey immediately following the ceremony. They will be at home at "High Riverby" West Park, N. Y., after December 10. Out of town attendants were Mrs. Edith Duane Peck of New York city, sister of the groom; Mrs. Parker Colby of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Julius J. Chisholm of Auburn, N. Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Smith, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y.

THIS WEEK'S ACTIVITIES AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock there will be a very important meeting of the Parish Council, the King's Messengers who are to participate in the every-member canvass next Sunday and the thirty women who are to be parish visitors, at the parish house on Albany avenue. In order that the intensive work in the interest of the canvass to secure funds to carry on the King's work next Sunday may be a complete success, Rector Kemper asks that every person mentioned above be at the parish house this evening.

On Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there will be a special meeting of the Parish Aid Society at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams Carter on Albany avenue.

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of the crucifers and acolytes at the rectory.

On Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, the usual celebration of the Holy Communion will be held at 8 o'clock and St. John's Church will join in the union Thanksgiving service in the high school at 10:30 a. m.

Friday will be a day of special intercession for the success of the King's Messengers on Sunday and the church will be open for prayer from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

On Saturday afternoon the Girls' Friendly Society will hold a tea and dance at the parish house from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Erne's Orchestra Was Paid.

Through a misunderstanding, a statement printed in The Freeman's Journal an American Legion story of the last monthly meeting, November 19, that John Erne's orchestra donated their services for a dance after the meeting is erroneous. "The fact is that Mr. Erne was paid for his services," Commander Heiselman said.

Hidden City of the Incas

Mountain Valley in the Machu Picchu Region.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

One of the most remarkable accomplishments in uncovering the secrets of the past in the Western hemisphere was the discovery a few years ago of Machu Picchu, hidden refuge city of the Incas, in the mountain fastnesses of Peru. The discovery was made by an expedition sent out by the National Geographic society and Yale university under the leadership of Prof. Hiram Bingham, now United States senator from Connecticut.

There is no part of the world which offers to the scientific explorer a more attractive field than the highlands of Peru and Bolivia.

In the first place, this region contains the vestiges of the most ancient and most advanced culture in South America. These remains consist in part of the ruins of roads and aqueducts; walls and terraces, fortresses, towns and cities. Besides the works of the ancient engineers and architects, there are the fragmentary remains of the ancient metallurgists, potters, and weavers. Here and there in old burial caves may be found specimens of bronze and silver ornaments, tools and utensils. Originally there was considerable gold to be found; but four centuries of treasure seekers have left so little in the way of precious metals for the modern explorer that he must have other objects in view or he will be sadly disappointed.

The larger part of the population of this lofty American Tibet today is composed of non-Spanish speaking Indians. Their commonest language is Kechua or Quichua.

The historical geography of the Andes of Peru and Bolivia offers a series of problems of intense interest. These include the origin of the ancient cities, such as Tiahuanaco, Cuzco, and Machu Picchu; the relation of the different types of architecture, including the monolithic, the adobe, and the rubble; the question of the migration of races, the spread of the ancient civilization, and the sequence of cultures, besides a thousand and one queries as to the manners and customs, government, religion, and philosophy of those illiterate but very skillful engineers and soldiers, the Incas, and their predecessors, the "Megalithic Folk."

Had System of Highways.

Machu Picchu was first found after a climb over mountain ridges and along sheer cliffs. Later the remains of old highways were found. It thus appears that the builders of Machu Picchu had an elaborate system of highways throughout this little known and almost unexplored country which lies between the Urubamba valley and the Apurimac. This region was once densely populated, and Machu Picchu was its capital. There are no other ruins in the region that approach the hidden city in magnificence, although there are a great many whose architecture bears a striking resemblance to the less important buildings in Machu Picchu itself.

Study of the remains found at Machu Picchu indicate that we have here an essentially Inca city, using the term Inca in its most reasonable sense—that is, to designate the tribes and nations that occupied the major part of the central Andes from earliest times down to the Spanish conquest.

Lack of timber, the prevalence of heavy rains during part of the year, and the ease with which stone might be procured early led to the development of stone as a building material. Strength and permanence were secured through the keying together of irregular blocks. The upper and lower surface of these stones were frequently convexed or concaved, the convexity of one stone approximating the concavity of the adjoining stone.

In constructing their walls the pure arch was not evolved. They developed several ingenious devices, such as "lock-holes" for fastening the bar back of a door; "ring-stones," which were inserted in the gables to enable the roofing beams to be tied on; projecting stone cylinders, which could be used as points to which to tie the roof and keep it from blowing off. The ancient builders also provided for ventilation and drainage.

Although the buildings are extremely well built, there is no cement or mortar in the masonry, and there is no means of preventing the roots of forest trees from penetrating the walls and eventually tearing them all down. In several cases gigantic trees were found perched on the very tips of the gable ends of small and beautifully constructed houses. It was difficult to cut down and get such trees out of the way without seriously damaging the house walls.

Machu Picchu was essentially a city of refuge. It is perched on a mountain top in the most inaccessible corner of the most inaccessible section of the Urubamba river. Apparently there is no part of the Andes that has been better defended by nature.

A stupendous canyon, where the principal rock is granite and where the precipices are frequently over 1,000 feet sheer, presents difficulties of attack and facilities for defense second to none. Here on a narrow ridge, flanked on all sides by precipitous or nearly precipitous slopes, a highly civilized people—artistic, inventive, and capable of sustained endeavor—at some time in the remote past built themselves a city of refuge.

Since they had no iron or steel tools—only stone hammers—its construction must have cost many generations, if not centuries, of effort.

Across the ridge, and defending the builders from attack on the side of the main mountain range, they constructed two walls. One of them, constituting the outer line of defense, leads from precipice to precipice, utilizing as best it can the natural steepness of the hill.

Beyond this, and on top of the mountain called Machu Picchu, which overlooks the valley from the very summit of one of the most stupendous precipices in the canyon, is constructed a signal station, from which the approach of an enemy could be instantly communicated to the city below. Within the outer wall they constructed an extensive series of agricultural terraces, stone lined and averaging about eight feet high. Between these and the city is a steep, dry moat and the inner wall.

When the members of an attacking force had safely negotiated the precipices and easily defended sides of the moat, they would still find themselves outside the inner defenses of the city, which consisted of a wall from fifteen to twenty feet high, composed of the largest stones that could be found in the vicinity—many of them true boulders weighing many tons. This wall is carried straight across the ridge from one precipitous side to the other. These defenses are on the south side of the city.

On the north side, on the narrow ridge connecting the city with Huayna Picchu, strong defensive terraces were strategically placed so as to render all the danger of an attack on this side.

Construction of the Houses.

On entering the city, perhaps the first characteristic that strikes one is that a large majority of the houses were a story and a half in height, with gable ends, and that these gable ends are marked by cylindrical blocks projecting out from the house in such a way as to suggest the idea of the ends of the rafters. The wooden rafters have all disappeared, but the ring-stones to which they were tied may still be seen.

The next most conspicuous feature of Machu Picchu is the quantity of stairways, there being over 100, large and small, within the city. Some of them have more than 150 steps, while others have but three or four. In some cases each step is a single block of stone 3 or 4 feet wide. In others the entire stairway—six, eight, or ten steps, as the case might be—was cut out of a single granite boulder.

The largest level space in the city was carefully graded and terraced, so as to be used for agricultural purposes, on the products of which the inhabitants could fall back for a time in case of a siege.

It seems probable that one reason why the city was deserted was a change in climate, resulting in scarcity of water supply. At the present time there are only three small springs on the mountain side, and in the dry season these could barely furnish water enough for cooking and drinking purposes for 40 or 50 people.

Reclaiming Potash

A recent survey shows that thousands of tons of potash content could be reclaimed from dust of cement mills, flue gases of blast furnaces and by-products of other like industries.

Don't Hesitate
DANCING IS AN ART AND A REAL ACCOMPLISHMENT
Everyone should know how to dance. Possibly you have gone to some social affair and because you couldn't dance even a little bit you were in the background all evening. Everybne else had a great time. As you were leaving the gathering that evening, you no doubt told the host or hostess that you had spent an enjoyable evening, but the other guests who noticed you sitting in a corner by yourself knew otherwise. And just because you couldn't dance or entertain.
